Mrs. Victor Held Likely to Receive Convention's Vote

Yonkers Woman May Take Up Duties Again as Head of Missionary Society

Others Are Listed

Executive List Includes Those Who Will Have Wide Range of Duties

The first item of business, following devotional service conducted by Mrs. Raymond Rignall and Mrs. A. P. Corlies, as the Missionary convention in progress at the Clinton Avenue Methodist Church entered upon its third day's program this morning, was the report of the nominating committee and election of officers for the coming year.

Tellers were to report results at the closing session this afternoon, but the ballot submitted by the nominating committee showed no change in the present list of officials and it was understood that a tally of the vote would show that their recommendations had been accepted by the some 250 delegates attending this 70th anniversary meeting.

There are probably two compelling reasons for making no change in the executive personnel—the excellent records made by the present incumbents and the fact that the coming year will be one of change as the organization becomes merged in the red set-up of the United Methodist Church.

Present officers, who doubtless will be continued, are: President—Mrs. Fred A. Victor, Yonkers.

Vice presidents-at-large—Mrs. William I. Haven, Summit, N. J., and Mrs. Dori Dieffenderfer, Madison, N. J.

Vice presidents—Mrs. Alexander S. McNear, West Orange, N. J., Mrs. Franklin Reed, Westfield, N. J., Mrs. Frank A. Hone, Brooklyn, N. J., Mrs. Frank L. Lawrence, Passaic, N. J.

Corresponding secretary—Mrs. Parris C. Greenly, Jersey City. Secretary of the home base—Mrs. Berryman H. McCoy, Trenton, N. J.

Statistical secretary for the home base—Mrs. Frank L. Addington, Brooklyn.

Recording secretary—Mrs. Lawrence J. Munson, Brooklyn. Foreign orders secretary—Mrs. Alexander S. MacNear, West Orange, N. J.

Treasurer—Mrs. Clinton Morris, Hempstead. Receiving treasurer—Mrs. Edward S. Burdick, Hackensack.

Treasurer of branch administration fund—Mrs. Thomas G. Spencer, Montclair, N. J. Special Superintendent of Secretaries

Secretary of field support—Mrs. R. A. Hand, Merchantville, N. J. Secretary student department—Mrs. Robert C. Osborn, Ithaca.

Secretary Christian stewardship—Mrs. Edward J. Fuller, Brooklyn. Extension secretary—Miss Florence M. Calkins, Elmira.

Supt. literature and missionary education—Mrs. Ellis E. Cook, Brooklyn.

Supt. Young People's Dept.—Mrs. Roger B. Saylor, East Orange, N. J.

Supt. Junior Dept.—Mrs. Philip S. Watters, White Plains. Director supplies—Miss Gertrude Cardus, Rochester.

Branch historian—Miss Mary W. Blake, Brooklyn. Editor of the Bulletin—Mrs. Joseph E. Appley, Basking Ridge, N. J.

Business manager bulletin—Mrs. W. F. Bigelow, Roselle, N. J. Auditor—Webster, Horne & Blanchard, New York City.

Charles Evans Is Made Chairman Of 'West Siders'

Operator of Stuyvesant Hotel Host to 35 Men Interested in Area Development; Next Meeting to Be Held at Middletown

Initial steps were taken Wednesday afternoon at the Hotel Stuyvesant in the formation of a West Side of the Hudson association for the promotion of the area.

Thirty-five men interested in the formation of an organization to boost the advantages to tourists and others and bring to the attention of the traveling public the beauties of the west shore country, were guests of Hamilton Laurie, operator of the hotel.

The meeting was opened by Mayor Conrad J. Heiseleman, who stated that while he was acting as chairman of the meeting, the idea had been one of Mr. Laurie, who had sold him the idea at a recent meeting between them.

At that time Mayor Heiseleman said he had been shown by Mr. Laurie facts of the formation of an east side of the Hudson movement and he became interested immediately with Mr. Laurie in getting an organization formed to promote the West Side of the Hudson.

For that purpose invitations had been issued to some 75 organizations and individuals interested in the promotion of better business and about half of those who had been invited had accepted the invitation of Mr. Laurie to be his guests at a dinner when the plan could be discussed.

The 35 men were guests of Mr. Laurie at a steak luncheon at the Hotel Stuyvesant and after the meal the group got down to the business of forming an association to publicize the west shore area from its southern boundary to the city of Albany. In this area it was stated that some of the most beautiful country in the world was contained. In close proximity 15 millions of people in the area had reached and it was held that with better publicity as to the natural, civic, industrial and social advantages of the area many more people would be attracted into the area.

Mayor Heiseleman in his opening remarks referred to the west side of the Hudson as the most attractive from a scenic standpoint. He also said that he had recently had a talk with Superintendent of Public Works Arthur W. Brandt in which the lack of money available for highways was discussed.

Although some one-hundred millions of dollars are taken from the people through gas and motor vehicle taxes, only thirteen millions of this vast sum are available for highways and the cities don't get that money to maintain streets over which "box-cars" are operated by big transportation companies.

Blames Highways Traffic is being kept out of the state because of poor roads and unsafe roads, said Mayor Heiseleman. There was no representative organization of taxpayers to force the state to spend additional money on highways and he decried the fact that out of four million car owners only 50,000 belonged to any organization which fostered aid for motorists and better highways.

One of the purposes of the formation of a west side of the Hudson river organization was to get the entire area in a single group which could get behind a movement to better conditions in the area.

The need for such a movement he clearly demonstrated when he produced a popular illustrated magazine and showed how the magazine had printed pictures and reading matter regarding the east side of the river as an attractive place to visit. In the article were pictures of old and historic buildings on the east side, "but so far as the article is concerned," said the mayor, "it was a waste side," said Mayor Heiseleman but he said

Trick Backfires

Pulling "an old Russian officer's trick," Allen H. Saul, Jr., stood up in his high school classroom at Rochester, N. Y., spun the cylinder of a revolver, and pulled the trigger. One chamber was loaded and the weight of the bullet was supposed to keep it from stopping in front of the hammer. But fate caught up with the spinning cylinder and when Saul pulled the trigger he killed himself.

Halliburton Lost, Skipper of Junk Says Upon Rescue

Capt. Anderson, Wife and Crew Are Picked Up Near Island; Author Is Legally Dead

Seattle, Oct. 5 (AP)—Richard Halliburton? "Oh, he's lost now."

With those words the skipper of a tiny Chinese junk announced the fate of the adventurous author who sailed into a typhoon in mid-Pacific March 24 and has not been heard of since.

The skipper, Capt. John Anderson, retired, Yangtze river pilot, sailed in the Taiping from Shanghai 106 days ago. He accompanied Halliburton's junk until they ran into the typhoon. He has not seen the explorer since.

Halliburton's death had been accepted generally several weeks.

Found Near Island Capt. Anderson, his 25-year-old wife and four men, battered and tossed for weeks in their 50-foot boat, were sighted off northern Vancouver Island.

"Almost hysterical, they were waving white rags on bamboo poles and shouting 'We're lost,'" said Lieut. Comdr. G. C. Jones of the coast survey ship Discoverer.

The Taiping had been lost since July 14, when it received food from the liner President Coolidge 600 miles east of Yokohama. It had no radio.

The Taiping was down to its last meager food supplies—a small quantity of rice and 20 gallons of water. One of its crew seized a loaf of bread from a rescuer's hands and bit at it ravenously.

Legally Dead Memphis, Tenn., Oct. 5 (AP)—Richard Halliburton, 39-year-old adventurer-lecturer-author ("Royal Road to Romance" and others), is legally dead.

Born at Memphis, educated at Princeton, Halliburton set out from New Orleans 18 years ago determined to relive fabulous exploits of history and legend.

He swam the Hellespont. He traced the travels of Ulysses. He rode, as Hannibal did, elephants over the Alps.

Last spring Halliburton sailed in a Chinese junk from Hongkong for San Francisco. The junk never made port.

Yesterday a jury hearing a suit involving his insurance decided the junk went down in a typhoon—carrying Halliburton to his death—March 23 or 24.

Bremen's Crew Returns To Berlin, Newspaper Says

Berlin, Oct. 5 (AP)—The newspaper Frankfurter Zeitung reported today that the crew of the German liner Bremen—more than 900 men—returned to Bremen last Friday after docking the ship in a neutral port.

The homecoming seamen were given a cheering reception and the Bremen's captain, Adolf Ahrens, was promoted to commodore by order of Adolf Hitler.

(The latest report on the whereabouts of the 51,731-ton German merchant fleet, was that carried to Oslo Tuesday by a sailor who said he saw her in Murmansk, Russian Arctic port, along with the 22,337-ton New York, three smaller German liners and 15 German freighters.

Grade Crossing Elimination Public Hearing October 11; $4,500,000 Allocated by State

Three Bandits Set Oklahoma on Edge With Bank Holdup

Fitch, Okla., Oct. 5 (AP)—Three desperadoes revived Oklahoma's rip-roarin' bank banditry days with a sensational threat to blow up a Fitch bank with nitroglycerine after kidnaping a salesman and holding him captive more than 40 hours.

The $1,195 holdup of the First State Bank here and another at Webbers Falls were the first in 19 months in Oklahoma—once the scene of almost daily raids by such dare-devils as Pretty Boy Floyd.

The nitroglycerine bandits started their spurge Monday night with the kidnaping of Raymond C. Quirk, 49-year-old Tulsa salesman, at Vinita. Tuesday they robbed a Miami filling station for "cigarette money."

Quirk held as Hostage Yesterday they sent their leader, a 25-year-old blond, to rob the Fitch bank while a second stood guard outside and a third held Quirk hostage 17 miles away.

The blond youth demanded of Clarence Miller, bank employee: "Do you know what nitroglycerine is?"

Miller, bewildered, turned to Constable Clarence (Blondie) McLaughlin, who had just walked in, and repeated the question.

Without waiting for a reply, the blond pulled out a bottle partially filled with a colorless liquid and announced: "Well, you know what it is now."

He quickly disarmed the constable, lined up him, Miller and three customers and demanded $5,000 from Cashier W. A. Brewer "or I'll blow this place sky-high."

Holds Back $4,000 Brewer showed out a stack of bills, meantime pushing $4,000 in currency into a wastebasket.

The youth grabbed the money, fled to a waiting car and returned to Quirk. The salesman said "he threatened to shoot me with a big .45 but I protested I hadn't done anything so they decided just to tie me up in my automobile."

"They warned me that if I told the police too much they would go to Tulsa and get me and my family. I had a penknife and managed to get it and cut myself loose."

Quirk, tired, hungry and bedraggled, went to nearby Fairland and notified officers, who speculated the desperadoes had fled into the Ozark Mountains of Missouri or Arkansas.

Two shabby youths, about 24 years old, held up the Webbers Falls State Bank at gunpoint and fled with all its cash—an undetermined amount.

58,500 Fans See New York Game

Derringer Blames Goodman for Loss of Opening Contest, Is Report

Yankee Stadium, New York, Oct. 5 (AP)—Apparently satisfied one victory by the world champion Yankees proved as much as four could, fans were slow in appearing today for the second game of the World Series between New York and the Cincinnati Reds.

Although the weather was ideal, warm and sunny, only a few more than 5,000 spectators were in the stands an hour after the gates opened.

Others were swarming into the bleachers through every portal, however, and it may be that the ease they found in getting a seat yesterday caused them to take more time today.

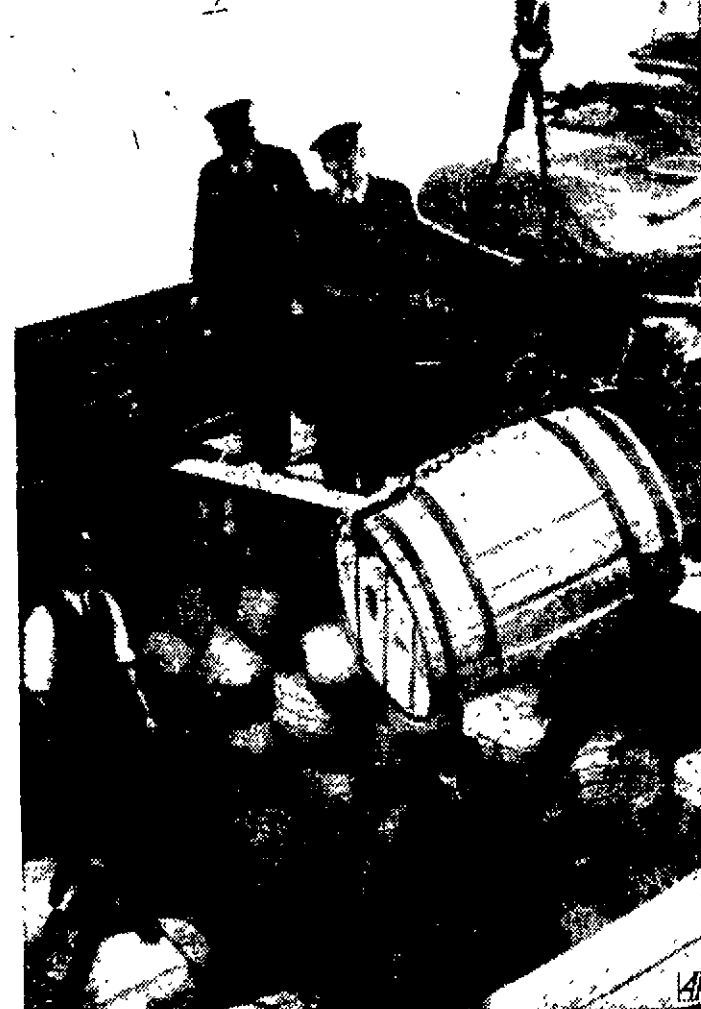

The diamond appeared to be fully dried in contrast to the soft footing it afforded for the first game, which the three-times world champions captured 2 to 1.

The starting pitchers for the Yankees were to be Bucky Walters for the Reds and Monte Pearson for the Yanks.

The Reds obviously were somewhat downcast as a result of their heartbreaking defeat in the opening game. Individual players were extremely cagey in answering questions by baseball reporters, probably because of the reported momentary flare-up between Derringer and Goodman at the conclusion of yesterday's game.

Blames Goodman At that time, Derringer is said to have put the responsibility for the Reds' defeat on the shoulders of Goodman, who failed to hold

Hitler Won't Drink This

Restless Europe Waits For Hitler's Speech

Fuehrer Scheduled to Give Address Tomorrow and May Outline Terms for Possible Peace

Berlin, Oct. 5 (AP)—Reichsfuehrer Hitler went in triumph today to Warsaw, Poland's fallen capital, and inspected the Nazi forces which effected the city's surrender.

He reviewed a parade of the victorious forces immediately after the inspection.

First word of his activity in dismembered Poland on the eve of his world-awaited Reichstag speech came in a report from the fuhrer's field headquarters by DNB, German official news agency.

Speech Awaited (By The Associated Press) Adolf Hitler again—as many times past—today kept Europe on the anxious seat about his intentions toward continued war.

The German fuhrer is to address the Reichstag tomorrow in a speech possibly outlining peace terms.

Whether the basis for ending hostilities would be suggested or whether such terms would be acceptable to the British-French allies was conjectural.

Warfare on the battlefields, however, was at a minimum. On the western front, a French

U-Boat Lands 28 Men in Ireland

Craft Evades Customs After Putting Greek Sailors Off at Lonely Spot

London, Oct. 5 (AP)—The British Press Association said today that a German submarine which landed 28 men from the torpedoed Greek steamer Diamantis on the Irish coast acted too quickly for guards of neutral Ireland to attempt internment of the U-boat.

The ship's crew was set ashore last evening near Dingle, county Kerry.

First reports from Dublin said the submarine exchanged greetings with persons ashore while the Diamantis survivors were ferried to land in a collapsible boat. The Diamantis, 4,990 tons, was sunk off Land's End on Tuesday.

"Civic guards patrolling the coast saw the submarine on the surface and rushed to the spot," said the Press Association's account, "but they were too late to detain the German U-boat. While the submarine moved away from the coast and started to submerge."

Six Go to Hospital Six of the survivors were taken to Dingle Hospital for treatment

British Naval Officers Say American Republics Will Find Control Difficult

London, Oct. 5 (AP)—British naval quarters declared today the smaller American republics might find it virtually impossible to establish effective control in carrying out the safety zone project agreed upon in Panama.

Only the United States, with a large and powerful navy, might be able to enforce the plan around its own coasts, a spokesman said.

Britain, he asserted, would do everything "in her power" to aid the American republics "ideas" but would not limit or abandon belligerent rights or access to the West Indies or other colonies.

The spokesman said that he could not make a definite statement on the legality of the safety zone, but that obviously it would have to be accepted by the belligerent powers and enforced by the American "participating powers" to have any effect.

Turning to the sinking on Saturday of the British freighter Clement by an "armed raider" off the coast of Brazil, the spokesman

Meeting Will Be Held at Council Chambers at 8 P. M.; New Station Is Included

Present Method Calls for Many Improvements in Central Section

Mayor Conrad J. Heiseleman announced this morning that he would hold a public hearing on the present plan for the elimination of the West Shore Railroad grade crossings from Broadway to Flatbush avenue on Wednesday evening, October 11, at 8 o'clock, in the common council chambers in the city hall.

The mayor stated that $4,500,000 already has been set aside from the state's grade crossings fund and earmarked for Kingston.

The present plan calls for the erection of a new passenger station here at a cost of $109,000; the north and south yards of the railroad would remain in the present locations; the Wallkill Valley Railroad would be taken entirely from Greenkill avenue, thus affording an extension of the Boulevard so that traffic could enter the central section of the city directly over Greenkill avenue.

The United States Hotel building and other properties will be torn down, and it was likely that opposite the Hotel Ulster there would be a public plaza or parking space for Central Broadway.

Five Plans Drafted Mayor Heiseleman stated that five different plans had been developed by his staff in cooperation with the railroad company, in the recent years during which he has sought to find a solution for what he termed "the most pressing problem before the people of Kingston as a community today," the elimination of the grade crossings.

One of these plans called for the depressing of Broadway under the tracks, called the Canfield plan. This plan would have made a hole in Broadway in the central business district and destroyed the value of that part of the city. This plan was rejected by the common council, although the Public Service Commission still has an order on its books calling for this type of elimination.

Another plan, calling for the depression of all of the tracks under the streets in a tunnel or cut had to be discarded because the estimated cost of the job was over $10,000,000, and the city administration, from investigations, where made, was convinced that the state would not allot such a sum of money for the crossing eliminations in Kingston.

Railroad's Plan In an attempt to eliminate the crossings in the city within a cost that would meet with the state's approval, the city engineers, in cooperation with the engineers of the New York Central railroad, have now developed the plan which has been on exhibition in the city hall for some weeks for the inspection of the citizens of the city.

Mayor Heiseleman said today he would withhold his approval or disapproval of the plan until he had had a full expression of the people of Kingston as to whether or not they want it. He stated frankly that it affected more property than the full depression plan did, although he pointed out that all property acquired would be paid for by the state and that he was assured that liberal prices would be paid for all property taken.

In order that the residents of Kingston would be familiar with the details of the present plan the mayor has had prepared a brief description of the proposed plan. He has included the names of all property owners whose property would be taken in full or in part.

Suspects Feudism The mayor said that there seemed to be some scepticism as to whether or not Kingston would ever get the crossings eliminated. He attributed this to the fact that the crossing question has been up intermittently for the past quarter-century, and the crossings were still not eliminated.

Mayor Heiseleman said that it was his honest opinion, based on information which he had, that if Kingston could present to the public service commission and the state department of public works a plan which rids the city of the dangerous crossings of the city of the West Shore Railroad at a cost within reason, the plan will be approved and the work done.

The mayor is anxious that all groups interested in the elimination of the crossings and all affected property owners attend the public hearing.

The plan in brief follows: General Scope The proposed plan for grade crossing eliminations of the city

80TH ANNIVERSARY

1859

FOR eighty years A&P has adhered to the cardinal principle on which it was founded—the belief that fine food did not have to be expensive. The soundness of this policy was proven in the first little A&P store by offering fine tea to the public at prices far below the current prices of those days. A&P quickly gained a reputation for remarkable values and progressive methods. Down through the years since 1859

A&P Food Stores everywhere have maintained and enhanced that reputation. Today A&P Food Stores are recognized far and wide for outstanding food values. Still faithful to the sound, far-sighted policy established so many years ago, we invite you to join us this week in the celebration of our 80TH ANNIVERSARY. Hosts of attractive values await your visit to your nearest A&P Food Store or Super Market.

Competition

Houston, Tex.—The city council was all set to order a municipal bond election October 28. Then someone recalled that's the date Rice plays Texas U. at Austin.

Fearing too many voters would go to Austin instead of to the polls, it ordered the vote November 4. Rice will be playing Fordham in faraway New York that day.

Chiropractors Meet

Members of the Hudson Valley District of the New York State Chiropractic Society held their regular monthly meeting Sunday, the feature of the day being a visit to Loomis Sanatorium, operated by Bernard MacFadden at Liberty for the treatment of tuberculosis.

After dinner the group was conducted on a tour of the various buildings and hospital by James Moore, M. D., chief of staff, and other members of the organization including Paul J. Veatch, director of health building at the Physical Culture Hotel, Danville. The group was highly impressed by the facilities of the sanatorium. Chiropractors William H. Pretsch of this city and J. S. Mason of Ellenville were present from this vicinity. At the completion of the visit the group was entertained at the home of Chiropractor Joseph Brandt of Livingston Manor, where the business meeting was held. William H. Pretsch presiding.

RED CROSS NEEDS

Faced with a growing demand for Red Cross assistance to the stricken populations of Europe's warring nations and a need for strengthening its domestic operations, the American Red Cross will embark November 11 on the greatest membership campaign since the World War.

The appeal will be carried by the 10,000 chapters and branches of the organization located in virtually every community in the country. Starting Armistice Day, Roll Call will extend through November 30.

Prior to the outbreak of hostilities in Europe, the American Red Cross planned to appeal for a million more members in an effort to strengthen its services in this country. War, however, has increased the responsibilities of the Red Cross to the point where even greater membership support is needed to meet the appeals from abroad.

The Red Cross is obligated by the Treaty of Geneva to assist in alleviating the sufferings of war. Chapters throughout the country already have started the production of garments for the needy civilian populations of belligerent countries, while a limited number of chapters are now preparing hundreds of thousands of surgical dressings for use at the front.

The success of Roll Call this year will gauge the amount of assistance the American Red Cross can give the sick and injured of war and the comfort that can be brought to refugees and other non-combatants fleeing the danger zones.

BOOST FOR EDUCATION

The dictators, in the opinion of President Robert M. Hutchins of Chicago University, have inadvertently accomplished one good thing for Americans. They have helped our education. Shocked by the suppression of academic freedom in totalitarian countries, we have rallied to its defense in our own universities, colleges and public schools.

Furthermore, many of the leaders in thought and education who have been exiled from their native lands because of their intellectual independence have found new opportunity to teach and speak here. At the University of Chicago, says Dr. Hutchins, "hardly a department from art to zoology has failed to benefit from the determined ignorance of the totalitarian regimes."

In another way, too, they have served this cause. They have set many Americans to studying history and government and racial cultures. The result will be a better understanding not only of current affairs but of the development of civilization and the part an intelligent nation can take in its further advance.

NOTES ON CIVILIZATION

Looking through recent newspapers and magazines:

Noting the pictures of underground cities built for safety against air raids and thinking how men have abused their wings;

Noting how strangely armies bury themselves in the ground for safety, and trench the fields to kill each other;

Noting how the means of wonderful and pleasant transportation by land and sea have changed into armored juggernauts and pirate craft;

Noting how men go in marvelous ships beneath the sea to slay other men and sink other ships;

Noting that useful metals dug laboriously from the earth are used to make weapons and bombs for slaughter instead of making life more pleasant;

Noting how people, instead of dwelling in their comfortable homes and lovely palaces, lurk in shelters of strong steel seeking to destroy other shelters containing men like themselves;

Noting how the natural desire to live and be happy is changed into an unnatural desire to kill and be wretched;

Noting how the piled wealth of the world is squandered in destroying wealth, and the ingenuity of man in destroying himself;

Noting how a race of creatures with god-like faculties and yearnings may act like devils and sink lower than the brutes in cruelty;

Noting how men in many lands seem to honor and obey most willingly other men who are most bent on destruction;

Well, a normal man or woman must wonder what is the matter with this so-called human race, and whether or not our whole civilization is going to blow up, and if so, whether we don't deserve what we get.

Davy Jones's Locker is doing very well, thank you.

THAT BODY OF YOURS

SCHOOL HEALTH REPORT

In most cities and towns the school children undergo a physical examination at the beginning of school term. Parents receive a report of the child's condition as found by the physician, dentist, and school nurse. As perhaps 90 per cent of the "defects" have to do with defective teeth (decay, irregularity), parents may not consider this a serious matter, yet the child's health and future appearance as to face and body may be seriously affected by neglect of dental health. "Only by keeping the teeth of the child in a healthy and comfortable condition can proper growth and development be provided for and the assurance given that the child today will be a vigorous adult tomorrow." The first or baby teeth should not be neglected just because they have to come out anyway to make room for the permanent set.

Should the school health report state that there is any defect of sight or hearing, the family physician should be consulted at once. A youngster who cannot see the blackboard clearly or who does not hear the teacher distinctly may be considered slow or stupid and an inferiority complex may be established. Sometimes tonsils and adenoids, by infection or obstruction, can interfere with sight and hearing. Another defect is "underweight." This may or may not be serious depending on whether the underweight is a family characteristic, the child being really strong and healthy, or due to the fact that the youngster does not get enough rest, hurries his eating, and eats the wrong kind of food.

Overweight, occasionally, a youngster who is greatly overweight—always a chubby child—whose overweight is due to gland disturbance. These very fat youngsters need special attention especially as they approach puberty (12 to 16 years of age).

Any curvature of the spine reported by the school health authorities should be corrected at once as correction may be difficult or require surgery later.

The removal of infected tonsils should prevent rheumatism and possible heart disease, removal or preservation of teeth help growth, development and appearance, a straightened spine prevent ill health and embarrassment.

Parents should welcome these physical reports. This is well spent taxes.

Machines in Cotton Kingdom Plow Under Farm Families

A man and a mule can handle eight to 15 acres.

New Orleans, (AP)—Mechanization of the cotton kingdom, proceeding at a terrific pace, has displaced thousands of farm families.

Most rapid mechanization has occurred in the southwest, where Texas farmers have added more than 7,000 tractors per year on the average for the past decade.

The trend is widespread also in the Old South. A WPA research report shows that in the 1930-38 period the number of tractors increased 122 per cent in the western cotton areas; 127 per cent in the delta region, and 90 per cent in the eastern cotton states.

All of this means that fewer human beings are needed to produce cotton.

A National Resources Committee report says the number of man-hours required to produce a bale of cotton was 304 in 1880, 285 in 1900 and 235 in 1930. A WPA report says the average has been reduced from 271 in 1907-11 to 218 in 1933-36.

C. Horace Hamilton, economist of the Texas Agricultural Experiment station, says: "The displacement of from three to five families by one tractor is not uncommon. Assuming that one tractor will displace one family, more than 60,000 farm families have probably been displaced from Texas farms since 1900."

"Many move to poor farms, unemployed to cotton production with tractors. A larger number migrate to towns and cities to become common laborers. Many remain in the open country as farm or common laborers."

"The displaced family faces the prospect of a lower income. The typical farm tenant in the high plains or the blackland may be expected to earn a net income of from $800 to $1,000 annually, even with cotton prices as they are today. As either a common or an agricultural laborer the same tenant cannot be expected to earn more than $250 to $300."

A man and four-row equipment can handle 50 to 200.

TILLSON

Tillson, Oct. 4.—Usual services in both churches next Sunday. Sunday school at 10 a. m. Church service at 11 a. m.

Instead of meeting on Thursday of next week, the usual time, the Ladies' Aid Society will meet next week Friday afternoon. The time of meeting will be 1:30 p. m. instead of 2:30 p. m. Everybody bring a paring knife and an apron ready to work preparing for the turkey dinner the next day.

Know Your Law

By CARROLL E. MEALEY
Commissioner of Motor Vehicles

(Editor's Note: Below are presented some questions and answers on the subject of the Vehicle and Traffic Law and rules of the road. Readers are invited to submit questions to Information Service, Bureau of Motor Vehicles, Albany, N. Y.)

Q.—Is a vehicle which is only occasionally used to carry passengers for hire required to be registered as an omnibus?

A.—Yes. Even if the vehicle is to be used only once for that purpose, it should be so registered.

Q.—Does that apply to a vehicle whose owner transports companions to work for a small sum?

A.—Yes, it does. The only exception is in the case of vehicles not of the omnibus type used to transport children or teachers and children to and from school elsewhere than in a city. For such vehicles special plates containing the letters "SB" are issued.

Q.—What type of vehicles must be covered by insurance?

A.—Any motor vehicle which is used to transport passengers for hire must be covered by a bond or policy of insurance. A copy of which must be filed with the Commissioner of Motor Vehicles. This also includes vehicles which are registered in the "SB" series.

GRANGE NEWS

Plattekill

Booster night was celebrated at Plattekill Grange on Saturday evening with a delicious supper, program and dancing. The program was as follows: Singing by the Grange, "The Dear Old Farm," Reading of National Master Taber's annual booster night message, Mrs. Leander Minard. Recitation, "September," Mary Diener. Recitation, "Friendship," Mrs. William Nabor. Essay, "What the Grange Offers the Farm Family," Mrs. Edward Harris. Monologue, "Smart Baby," Mrs. Thomas Dawes. Address, "Definition of the Grange," Harry C. Bull, deputy of Orange and Rockland counties. Singing by the Grange, "Love's Old Sweet Song." Autumn drill, with the following participating: Mrs. Ed Kaup, Mrs. Burton Ward, Mrs. Thomas, Dawes, Rose Langitz, Marjorie Minard, Frances Ann Dibble, Ed Kaup, Martin Dewey, Russell Carpenter, Jerry Hughes, George Martin and George Sisti, closing with a tableau by Mrs. Davis Diener, Mrs. Gertrude Beaman and Susie Foster and singing by the entire group. Reading, "I Am American," by Mrs. Charles Everett with closing song, "America."

The next regular meeting of the Grange will be held on Saturday evening, October 14.

Stamps In The News

An advance illustration of the U. S. 3-cent purple commemorative of the 300th anniversary of the introduction of printing to America—which was announced four weeks ago in this column—has been released. The stamp itself will appear September 25, at the New York postoffice.

As forecast, the design is a drawing of the original Stephen Daye press. This was the first press to reach colonial America. Upon receiving the press from England, Daye printed "The Freeman's Oath" at Cambridge in 1639.

The oath dealt with civic rights and duties of colonists.

Another U. S. stamp mentioned in a previous column is beginning to take shape. That is the single commemorative postage stamp to be issued in November to mark the 50th anniversary of the admission to statehood of North Dakota, South Dakota, Montana and Washington.

A working model of the stamp has been prepared at the Bureau of Engraving and Printing. Reports state that the stamp will show a composite outline of the four states honored. The date for release has not been announced, but the stamps will be placed on sale first at capitals of the four states.

Bulgarian Issues

Bulgaria has issued five stamps intended primarily for special delivery service but acceptable as regular postage. All five depict how special delivery letters are hurried to their destination in Bulgaria.

Two of them—the 6-leves yellow-brown and the 81 bright orange—picture a mail truck in motion. The 51 deep blue and the 201 rose-red show a bicyclist; the dark brown 71 a motorcycle. All bear the legend "Tsarstvo Bulgariya" (Kingdom of Bulgaria) across the top and "B.R.Z.A. Posta" (Royal Bulgarian Express Service) along the bottom.

In addition, Bulgaria has just released a sports commemorative set of five. Illustrations are excellent as to detail. The 11 light green shows a high diver; the 21 red depicts a dumb-bell juggler; the 41 brown shows an ancient Greek discus thrower; the 71 shows a girl in sports togs; and the 141 shows a weight-lifter.

Back in April the German postal authorities decided that postal paper was equivalent to currency, so they prohibited both export and import of postal paper. Thus the demand for German stamps by European collectors has increased.

Hitler Wants Peace, But Allied Statesmen Must Find An Honorable Way Out Before Quitting

By DAVID LAWRENCE

(Copyright, 1939)

Washington, Oct. 5.—Regardless of how pleasant or unpleasant may be the effect on either set of belligerents, the United States government will not hesitate to transmit peace offers or otherwise advance the cause of peace.

Rumors and reports from Europe that America would be invited to sit in on any council to make peace have been unofficially discussed, but, until a concrete proposal confronts the American government, no official comment can be made.

The desire, however, to end the European war at the earliest possible moment and to persuade each side to consider an armistice strong in the official group. It is well recognized that Great Britain must publicly say that no peace terms can be accepted which do not provide for an attainment of objectives for which she went to war, and it is likewise understood that Germany cannot publicly set forth terms which would involve a retreat. But a frank realization that Germany does not want to keep on fighting, and that the British and French would welcome an honorable way out.

The war was begun in the first instance without taking into account that the British and French would fight. Herr Hitler felt confident he could depend on a localized war, that, as soon as he seized and subjugated Poland, it would be over. He may have even reasoned that, in view of the British treaty with Poland, the former could not avoid participation, but that, if confronted with a conquered Poland, the British might subsequently take a different view.

Herr Hitler miscalculated the British position and now wants to end the war. He is too well acquainted with British pronouncements to think that a mere restatement of his pacific aims toward the British and French would be adequate. He knows that some form of guarantee must be forthcoming which would satisfy British and French opinion. With the entrance of Russia into the picture as guardian of a collection of lesser states, thus blocking Nazi progress to the east, Herr Hitler cannot be as happy now as his makeshift alliance seemed last month to indicate.

That Hitler wants peace now is unquestionably true. Shall his effort be spurned just because he has made a mistake? Are the allied statesmen shrewd enough to penetrate the bluff and threat and bluster of public speeches and to realize that a prolonged war means the economic ruin of all Europe? There may have to be a good deal of swallowing of pride on each side, but loss of pride is of negligible importance if it is forthcoming a guarantee against constant recurrence of the use of force as a means of altering boundaries.

Maybe the statesmanship of the world is ready to return to collective security, a family of nations instead of a balance of power—and maybe the German people will join such a union today in the midst of a war they cannot possibly be relishing. An association of nations which does not provide for a gradual reduction of armament would be futile, but also any association of nations which did not provide for a gradual revision of territorial and economic arrangements of the past would be equally futile.

The key to peace is right here in Washington. If the isolationist group which is so eager to keep American boys and American families from being dragged into war would use their talents and energies to get back of plans to formulate a world peace program, the embargo issues would soon become academic. But unhappily in the past the same group which is now fighting a revision of the embargo has been opposing all effort to exert on behalf of America any tangible influence for international cooperation. The United States may have been unsuccessful in 1915 and 1916 in endeavoring to persuade the belligerents to lay down their arms, but it ultimately turned out that America was able, as a consequence of those preliminary to bringing about an armistice. History might repeat itself now. Certainly there is nothing to be lost for the allies to agree to an armistice and discussion now, each side maintaining status quo in a military and naval sense until the issues were thoroughly examined.

It is not unlikely that an armistice once proclaimed would lead to peace, because each government knows now that force will be used because it already has been used. The British and French would be making a serious mistake if they did not set forth their aims specifically and concretely and in such a manner as to provide a way out for Herr Hitler. To stop war now is not "to surrender" in ignoble fashion, as was suggested in the British parliamentary debate this week, because to surrender to this higher law than mankind's brutishness is never ignoble. NEW PALTZ

New Paltz, Oct. 5.—Catherine Gerlich has resumed her duties at Vassar College, Poughkeepsie.

The Rev. John W. Follette and his mother have been entertaining the Misses Betty Stoneman and Katie Builder of Toronto and guests of the Follettes over the week-end were Mr. and Mrs. Cornelius Ulrich of Milwaukee, Wis. Mr. Ulrich is a publisher and published Mr. Follette's last two books, "Old Corn" and "Broken Bread." The guests were all entertained by Mr. Follette at dinner at the Old Fort on Sunday. Miss Builder, who was born in India and has traveled extensively, said she never saw a street quite so unique as Huguenot street, New Paltz.

The Democratic caucus was held Monday night, October 2, having been postponed from Wednesday night of last week.

Boosters' Night was observed at New Paltz. Huguenot Grange meeting Saturday night. Attorney Roger Loughran of Kingston, a member of the Lake Katrine Grange, gave an interesting talk. Past presidents of the local Grange also gave speeches and a monologue and an animated cartoon. Special music and a demonstration rounded out the evening's program. The service and hospital committee had charge of the refreshments.

Frank Harp has finished wiring the home of Mrs. Stella Woolsey for electricity at Gardiner.

Mrs. Andrew Deyo spent the week-end in New York city.

The Country Life Club of the Normal School held its first meeting Thursday night. The purpose of the club is to acquaint students with social problems to be met in connection with teaching in rural schools.

The structure of the schooner yacht, "Atlantic," which was a gift to Mohonk House by William A. Charles, now hangs in one of the corridors. The yacht is said to have won the German Emperor's Cup in the famous race of 1905, having sailed from Sandy Hook to the Lizard, England in 12 days, four hours and one minute, which has never been equalled by any vessel under sail. At that time Commodore William Marshall of Bridgeport, Conn., owned the yacht which is now the property of Gerard B. Lambert.

Mr. and Mrs. John P. Miller are the parents of a daughter, Ann Jacqueline, born at the Kingston Hospital.

The Rev. Benjamin J. Bush, D.D., minister of Westminster Presbyterian Church of Detroit, Mich., and a former pastor of New Paltz Reformed Church was in Europe during the days it hung on the brink of war. He was in Danzig two days during the "crisis" and interviewed 20 of the leaders of Europe. He flew to Warsaw and was in Russia and Rumania during the days that

Gentlemen:
 Our test #93508-NY covers the analysis of the fabrics used in the construction of two suits which were purchased in the open market by a representative of the United States Testing Company, Inc. One suit is a nationally advertised garment retailing at $35.00, while the other was selected from the stock on hand at the show rooms of Stein Brothers of New York City and retails at $15.00.

You will note from the results of our tests, both samples would be rated the same as far as composition, wear, color fastness and shrinkage are concerned. The nationally advertised suit is slightly heavier and has a higher thread count, however, the Stein Brothers suit is the stronger of the two.

From the results of the numerous tests conducted on these two suit fabrics, we would state that as far as the suit fabric is concerned, both samples would be considered equal and should give the same high degree of serviceability.

Very truly yours

Pastor to Get Sentence

Flint, Mich., Oct. 5 (AP)—Convicted of first degree murder in the shooting of his ailing wife, the Rev. James W. Lane, 61-year-old mission preacher and factory worker, will be sentenced tomorrow to a mandatory life term in prison. A circuit court jury of seven men and five women returned a guilty verdict last night following a trial during which the preacher admitted intimacies with his 41-year-old housekeeper, Mrs. Helen Sherwood. The prosecution charged it was infatuation for Mrs. Sherwood that caused Lane to send a rifle bullet into the head of his wife, Nancy Virginia, 61, last July. Lane said the shooting was accidental.

Boys Hurt as Car And Bike Crash

Three bicycles and their owners and the driver of a car, who, according to investigating officers, was operating her automobile with a learner's permit, were involved in an accident at Port Ewen about 6:30 Wednesday night that resulted in three Port Ewen boys being injured.

occurred at the intersection of Broadway and Stout avenue, Port Ewen, David Mannello, 14, Raymond Dempsey, 14, and Frederick Spinnenweber, 12, were injured by Dr. George W. Ross for injuries sustained. Mannello had a bad cut on the back of his head. Dempsey was cut and bruised about the arms and legs and young Spinnenweber sustained injuries when the car ran over him. Apparently none of the boys was injured seriously.

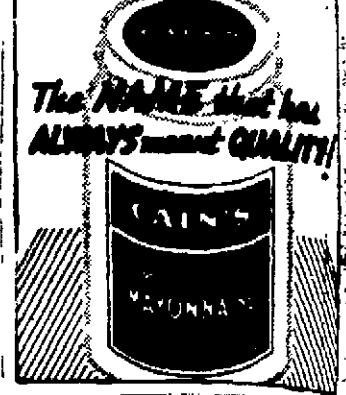

Deputy Sheriffs Brown and McCullough, who investigated the accident, were told that the three boys, with their bicycles, were standing in the first lane of the highway when they were struck by a car driven by Cora Rusk, 49, a registered nurse from Red Hook. One of the boys was tossed a distance of several feet, while the car is reported to have run over one of the others. One of the bicycles, said to have been lying on the pavement, was caught on the bottom of the car and carried some distance.

Riding with Miss Rusk were Christina MacKenzie of 132 East 45th street, New York, also a registered nurse and who is a licensed operator, and Mrs. Helen Schein. Miss Rusk and Miss MacKenzie are nurses at Ward Manor, Red Hook, and Mrs. Schein is a cook at the same place. Deputy Sheriff Brown took photos at the scene of the accident, but there were no arrests and it is understood that there would be no criminal action brought.

It is extremely difficult to understand a wife jealously when you see the newspaper portrait of her husband.

Faces Life Term
Uniontown, Pa., Oct. 5 (AP)—A mother of eight children faces life imprisonment for shooting her husband when he stopped her credit at a company store. "God have mercy on me," cried 54-year-old Mrs. Tony Vailonga yesterday upon hearing her sentence for a crime described by Judge W. Russell Carr as "wilful, deliberate and premeditated." The woman said her 49-year-old mate cut off her food supply because he wanted to starve her and the children. During an argument, she claimed he started to choke her and that she obtained a gun, fired seven bullets into Vailonga's body.

200,000 Pass Bier
Chicago, Oct. 5 (AP)—A steady stream of mourners filed past the bier of George Cardinal Mundelein today as members of religious orders of the archdiocese gathered at Holy Name Cathedral for a pontifical requiem Mass. Police officers on duty at the edifice estimated that more than 200,000 persons had filed past the catafalque since Tuesday when the solid bronze casket was placed upon it. Members of the Catholic hierarchy from all sections of the nation were arriving today for the final requiem Mass tomorrow morning.

Papal Encyclical Oct. 29
Vatican City, Oct. 5 (U.P.)—Vat-icane prelates said today they expected that Pope Pius would issue the first encyclical of his pontificate on October 29, the festival of Christ the King, and that it would contain an appeal for peace.

It was said the Pontiff had been working on such a document since he went to Castel Gandolfo on July 24. Some passages were understood to have been revised to meet the new situation created by the war.

Women Break Precedent
East St. Louis, Ill., Oct. 5 (U.P.)—

Women on the first jury here to include their sex broke a precedent by not eating on the state after completing a case late in the day. Instead, they went home—to cook their own dinners.

Policeman Is Indicted
Mauch Chunk, Pa., Oct. 5 (U.P.)—
Benjamin Franklin, 33, suspended Pennsylvania police corporal, was indicted on murder and involuntary manslaughter charges today in the slaying of 14-year-old Joan Stevens, Nesquehoning school girl,

June 5. District Attorney Albert
Heimbach announced Franklin would be placed on trial Tuesday.

Railroad estimates that by operating trucks and buses on a limited part of its territory it effected a $66,400 annual savings.
A new headlight system, result of three years' cooperative research by the entire automobile industry, potentially ranks with four-wheel brakes, safety glass and steel bodies as a significant automotive contribution to highway safety.

Man Fined $50 on Bad Check Charge

Earl Goes, formerly of Greene county, was arrested at Poughkeepsie Wednesday morning by Trooper Raymond Dunn on a bad check charge. Arraigned before Justice William C. Weyman of Poughkeepsie he was fined $50 with alternative of 30 days in jail. Goes was picked up in Poughkeepsie on Tuesday night on a public intoxication charge, but was turned over to Trooper Dunn, who held a warrant for his arrest. It is charged that in May last he gave a bad check to one Alfred Rose to be cashed at the Phoenixia diner.

Late September brought apple blossoms along with full-grown fruit to the orchard of Mr. and Mrs. Wilhite on Lake Ontario.

The number of acres of wheat that will be planted in New York within the next few days will be governed by the action of a war-driven market. Henry Wallace, secretary of agriculture, points out that the government quotas should be adhered to because the abundant surplus does not justify a great permanent rise in price. He warns against expansion of acreages beyond world needs that can only result in still greater surpluses and still lower prices.

Baltic Sure to Figure in War

Furnishes Only Sea Outlet for Poland and Three Neutral Nations.

WASHINGTON.—The Baltic sea, on the waters around the shores of which struggles may occur during the conflict in Europe, is the subject of a bulletin from the National Geographic society. The shores of the Baltic form as much of a political patchwork as those of the Mediterranean, the bulletin points out.

"In the days of the Viking fleets, the Baltic was a network of trading routes second only to the Mediterranean in commercial importance," continues the bulletin. "Today, the Baltic transports the great trade of the marginal nations, the bulk of which is among themselves."

Sea Outlet for Four Nations.—"The northern inland sea furnishes the only sea outlet for Poland and for the three small neutral nations, Lithuania, Latvia and Estonia. While Russia has other sea outlets, its Baltic frontage is none the less important. Finland has a tiny strip of land reaching to the Arctic ocean in the extreme north, but it is in effect dependent on the Baltic for a sea outlet."

"Sweden's Baltic sea coast extends for nearly a thousand miles, but it also has an extensive coast line on the waters of the Kattegat and Skagerrak, the channels which connect the Baltic with the North sea. The other Baltic countries with double sea fronts are Denmark, which lies practically across the water door to the Baltic; and Germany, which has two Baltic coast lines—in West Prussia and East Prussia—and a North sea coast line between The Netherlands and Denmark."

"While all the other countries fronting on the Baltic must send their ships through the Kattegat and Skagerrak to reach the North sea, Germany has the 60-mile-long Kiel canal connecting the two seas, through the Jutland peninsula. This waterway was enlarged just before the World war to permit the passage of dreadnaughts and other large vessels. By the Versailles treaty, the Kiel canal was made an international waterway; but two years ago Germany again took control."

Drains Huge Area.

"With an estimated area of about 180,000 square miles, the Baltic sea is more than half again as large as the five Great Lakes on the Canadian border. It extends north almost to the Arctic circle where the sun never sets for a period of seven weeks each June and July. It is nearly 1,000 miles long, with a width varying from 50 to 400 miles."

"So great is the flow of river water into the sea that it is increased in volume during the flood season. It drains an area about one-fifth that of the United States. The rivers are also responsible for lessening the percentage of salt in the water which freezes in the northern portions. Finland has one ice-breaking ship with 9,200 horsepower that can plow through three feet of ice. In the northern portions, however, the Baltic is not navigable during the winter months."

Humorist to Minister

Robert Jones Burdette was a famous humorist who became a minister. He was on the staff of the Peoria Transcript and later became associate editor of the Burlington (Iowa) Hawkeye and of the Brooklyn Eagle, in which his humorous sketches won him considerable fame. He began to lecture in 1878. In 1887 he was licensed as a minister of the Baptist church and held a pastorate at Los Angeles until 1909. He was the author of a number of humorous books.

Temple Emanuel Services Listed

Services will be held at Temple Emanuel on Friday evening, October 6, at 7:45. The sermon will be "The Synagogue Takes Stock." The Saturday morning service for young people will commence at 10 o'clock and last for one hour. Registration is still open in the religious school, which meets on Sunday morning at 10.

All Good Cooks KNOW

...IT'S PORK SAUSAGE TIME

Whisk back in memory to the old farm kitchen—and catch again the fragrance of Mother's cooking as it drifted through the window. It was a sure sign of autumn—and you knew there'd soon be tempting meals of old-fashioned pork sausage on the table!

Even that memorable flavor doesn't compare with the flavor of First Prize Pure Pork Sausage now that it's "Tender-Cut". Good cooks will find that being "Tender-Cut" it has a richer flavor than ever. They know it's always fresh, always all pork, always U.S. Government inspected.

It makes a grand meal for nippy fall days.

Tender-Cut ... for Richer Flavor!

Lord's Prayer Version

Of Aborigines Translated SYDNEY, N. S. W.—Dr. Herman Nekes, specialist on the languages and dialects of Australian aborigines, has translated back into English the Lord's Prayer after it had been incorporated into one of the aboriginal languages.

The literal translation is as follows:

"Our father on top sky. Thy name be feared. Thou art our Boss. Men-women will listen to Thee this place earth as the good souls of men-women listen to Thee on top sky."

"Give us tucker till the sun goth down. We did wrong; make us good. Watch us agains bad place. Thy hands are stretched out to guard us from bad."

College Grades Solons

On Basis of Their Votes SACRAMENTO, CALIF.—Modern state legislators have to watch their "p's and q's" now.

Within a month after the adjournment of the California legislature every member received his "grade" as checked by professors and students of the Sacramento Junior college based on the attitude and voting of each legislator throughout the session.

They were graded as being "liberals," "usually liberals," "straddlers," "usually conservatives" and "die-hard conservatives."

Egypt Orders Girls

To Take First Aid CAIRO, EGYPT.—Egypt's school girls—whose brothers now receive military training—must also "do their bit" in preparing for an emergency, the minister of education has decide.

He has ordered school girls to take courses in first aid.

Teachers and girl-guide officials have received similar instructions.

Since the beginning of the century New York state has distributed 545,148,000 young forest trees for reforestation purposes. Nearly 45 per cent of this total has been utilized in private reforestation projects, the balance being used by the Conservation Department in carrying out its state-wide enlarged reforestation program.

Grunenwald Loses Negligence Action

Justice Harry E. Schirick Wednesday dismissed the complaint in the negligence action brought by William Grunenwald, Kingston baker, against Mrs. Mary Teichler, owner of the property on Broadway where he operates a bakery.

Mr. Grunenwald alleged that he had been injured in January, 1938, when a step on the premises broke, throwing him to the ground. He charged that it was the duty of the defendant to keep the step in repair. This was denied by the defendant.

After the case had been presented for the plaintiff, Arthur B. Ewig for Mrs. Teichler moved for a dismissal on the grounds that there was no proof that the defendant was bound to keep the step in repair and further that it was the duty of the plaintiff to do so.

Judge Schirick granted the motion. Court recessed until 10 o'clock today.

Not only has the widespread use of shock absorbers given the motorist additional riding comfort, but it has created a big field of employment. Since shock absorbers became standard equipment on all cars, more than 4,500,000 additional man-days of labor have been required to supply the motor industry with the product in a good year.

Mapping the News Cushion Against War?

The shading indicates the "American safety zone" proposed at the neutrality conference of American republics, meeting at Panama. Warring nations would be asked to consider the zone neutral territory and refrain from belligerent activities while in it. The area probably would be patrolled by naval vessels of the U. S. and other American countries.

Takes Her Advice

Washington, Oct. 5 (AP)—Fayette B. Dow, Washington attorney for petroleum interests, was testifying yesterday before the federal monopoly committee. He halted abruptly, read a note handed to him, and announced: "I've just got word from my wife to quit yelling." Dow heeded the advice.

'Palace of Peace' Ready For Possible Air Attack

Geneva, Oct. 5 (AP)—The League of Nations' "Palace of Peace," which stands out like a target even on the darkest night, is ready for any possible air attack. Permanent officials of the league have been told what to do in an air raid.

Sandbags have been piled along the long passageways under the palace and dark blue curtains already are hanging at its exits. Military men who inspected the basement recently called it bomb-proof even though few members of the assembly dreamed of providing safe refuges against air warfare when they decided in 1934 to erect the building.

Now it is possible that the league assembly will meet in the shadow of war. After a postponement due to the conflict, informed sources said last night, a meeting will be called in December to consider creation of a central committee for coordinating league social and economic activities.

Political questions would be barred, however, to avoid embarrassing neutral Switzerland, which permitted the league to remain at its Geneva Palace on the understanding there would be no war-time political discussions.

Ohio Man Earns Living Entering Prize Contests

A $3 prize in a newspaper contest won as an 11-year-old boy is the basis of a modern success story by Frank G. Davis, of Springfield.

In the 35 years since that first prize, he has won $50,000 in 1,500 contests. In the last eight years, Davis said, he earned between $2,500 and $5,000, including eight automobiles—for doing nothing more strenuous than thinking up slogans, working out crossword puzzles, predicting football scores or drawing cartoons.

Davis now spends five hours a day at his work, the rest of the time doing free-lance writing and cartooning. So far this year he has come through with 71 prizes, which is considerably better than his 35-year-average of one every 10 days.

He doesn't keep account of his expenses, but estimates that expenditures for stamps, stationery and ink amount to $12 and $15 a month. The cost of soap wrappers, box tops and the like don't amount to much because he doesn't enter many of this type of contest. "They're too big; judges can't give entries proper consideration," he says.

'Dead' Lives Again

Dr. D. H. Werden, of San Diego, reports the saving of a 14-year-old girl's life after breathing had ceased for 40 minutes, by removing a brain tumor. Writing in the Journal of the American Medical Association, the physician stated that 18 months after the operation, the patient's speech and mentality were normal. The only apparent aftereffects were blindness and some difficulty in walking. The respiratory paralysis Dr. Werden wrote, was compensated for by immediate artificial respiration. There was a prolonged period of unconsciousness that he ascribed to insufficient oxygen in the brain tissues. He said the condition was sufficient to cause blindness, but not mental impairment.

Hardening of Cement

The hardening of cement is due chiefly to the decomposition of the compounds of lime upon the addition of water, resulting in the formation of calcium hydrate, which on crystallization binds together the other solid ingredients. The initial setting is due principally to the decomposition of the aluminates, while the final hardening depends more upon the action of the silicates.

Two hundred policemen who recently joined the New South Wales, Australia, police, are undergoing a new and special training in "personality, polish and poise."

Group Asks 1940 Fair

San Francisco, Oct. 5 (AP)—A group of business men incorporated as the "1940 Exposition Inc." launched a campaign today for enough money to re-open the world's fair next season. The campaign was given impetus when President Leland W. Cutler of the exposition announced the fair would close October 29, instead of December 2, to avoid rainy weather and dwindling crowds. Attendance totals 8,600,000. Early plans were made on an announced basis of an expected 20,000,000 attendance.

The Royal Australian Air Force has taken delivery of the first five locally built Wirraway warplanes.

It is expected that 137 of those planes, the first military aircraft produced in Australia, will be completed within a year at the Commonwealth Aircraft Factory, Melbourne.

Orange Co. Man Named Chairman

organizations among the West Side organizations could also bring to the public the beauties of the west shore and let the public know that on this side of the river was some historic ground. West Point, the Catskills, Shawangunks, Kingston the first capital of the state, Washington's headquarters and many other things to attract the traveler.

Lack of Information

Also in the New York State Conservation Department booklet he referred to the lack of local information. This could not be charged to the department which was doing a good job but he said it was because of lack of organization here to bring these things to the attention of the officials.

After several additional speakers had given their views Edward Mitchell of Middletown spoke of the good results he and Mr. Laurie had obtained through the distribution of maps showing advantages of the area and said his hotel and Mr. Laurie's had received very splendid results. He moved that Charles Evans, first vice-president of the Orange County Chamber of Commerce be made temporary chairman of the organization to be formed and invited the group to be his guests at Mitchell Inn, Middletown, for its next meeting.

Mr. Mitchell's suggestion was accepted and Mr. Evans was named temporary chairman. Mr. Evans, who resides at Mountainville, had elected as temporary secretary, S. T. Horton of Goshen, secretary of the Orange County Chamber of Commerce.

Tells of Background

A. V. Dayton of New Paltz, president of the village Chamber of Commerce, referred to the historical value of the west shore and said that in so far as scenic beauty was concerned the west shore was much more attractive than the east shore and boasted of greater historical interest. He referred to Washington's headquarters at Newburgh, the old Senate House in Kingston and also the old colonial stone houses and their historic background. It was in this area that the Huguenots made their stand and contributed toward the freedom of America. It was not lack of material in this area but it was lack of cooperation or organization to bring these facts to the traveling public which was lacking, he said, and he urged the cooperation of all communities in forming an organization to promote the area. Funds would be required but cooperation was most essential.

Edward Dillon Speaks

Edward Dillon of the Newburgh Chamber of Commerce said a strong organization should be formed and "the sooner we start telling the people at Albany how we will be off the better we will be off." He urged that the men form an association which would be active.

"Don't form an association and elect officers and then let it die. Do something," said Mr. Dillon. He referred to the splendid job which Secretary Horton had done if uniting several groups in Orange county and forming one large compact group of these many smaller groups.

One of the best publicity stunts which had been done to promote the area was the "Hudson River Vacationland" film which the Central Hudson Gas and Electric Corp. had made showing the advantages of the Hudson valley as a recreational area. It has been shown in the metropolitan area and had attracted much comment.

Secretary S. T. Horton spoke and told how in the past four years the Orange County Association had been formed by centralizing numerous small groups into the County Chamber of Commerce and he said in the past the numerous smaller groups had to go out and seek recognition. Now the large central group is sought out and even metropolitan papers seek information. He spoke of the benefit from the World's Fair Exhibit in which Ulster county also participated where over 50,000 maps were sent out to all cities of over 10,000 population and he said since these maps went out of his office he has received an average of four inquiries a day. In regard to the lack of publicity in the state fold he said there had been no organized group for the area to supply it. The state would use any information or pictures sent it if there was some organization to work up such matter.

Direct Rail Connection

Mr. Evans predicted that within a few years a direct railroad connection to New York city from the west shore of the Hudson would be made, making it easier for New York people to get directly to the west shore to participate in the summer as well as the winter recreation facilities. Commuting would be stimulated and, he said, the area should be ready for the day when expansion would surely come. He suggested that even though there was no state aid available, there was a law in effect which permitted county boards of supervisors to make small appropriations for publicity work. This fund in conjunction with privately raised funds could do much toward publicizing the area.

Mayor W. P. Phillips of Port Jervis said the organization of a west shore association would do one thing, it would bring the communities closer together. With 15 millions of people within three hours of the advantages of the Hudson valley he said it should be brought to their attention. New England was referred to as an area where publicity had brought the people. Mayor Phillips suggested that the Hudson valley was many times nearer New England and a logical place for vacationists both in summer and winter.

Warns of Excess

Helen Mower of the Kiskatom Resort Center warned the group to watch the manner of advertising, saying that she as head of the Kiskatom association had encountered difficulty by exceeding their appropriation in their anxiety to get as much advertising as possible.

Morton R. Francis of Tannersville, secretary of the Rip Van Winkle Trail Association, said he felt sure all communities of the area would be willing to cooperate and he pledged the support of his association.

There were various suggestions as to what name should be given the association when formed and Judge A. V. Dayton of New Paltz suggested the Hudson River Counties Association and others suggested that the West Shore be made prominent in that it was the west shore of the Hudson which was seeking the publicity.

The meeting came to a close with Mr. Evans' statement that notice would be given the group as to the time and hour of the meeting at Mitchell Inn, Middletown. The meeting would be an evening one and would be called within a month so that organization could be completed and work commenced before the spring resort business was commenced.

Those in attendance at the meeting Wednesday as guests of Mr. Laurie were:

Robert P. Anderson, mayor, Middletown.

Ralph M. Aiello, Middletown Times-Herald.

Enchanted Mesa

The Enchanted Mesa is called Katzimu (the accursed) by Acoma Indians. According to tradition, their ancestors, who had gone to their fields in the plains, were prevented from returning to their high mesa by a terrific storm which destroyed their rock ladder, leaving three women, two to die of starvation and one to commit suicide in despair.

George Washington could trace his descent directly from King John of England, according to a genealogical tree on display at the British Pavilion at the New York World's Fair. Also shown are 92 coats-of-arms borne by Washington's ancestors.

Want a New Cake?

Here's one with a rich warm color and an enticing new flavor

No wonder this cake is called Prize Cake? It has such a wonderful combination of flavors. So unusual, too, and just the kind that appeals to men!

We'll wager you've never tasted anything quite like this blend of cinnamon, cocoa and vanilla with chopped nuts and raisins! And a pure new vegetable shortening, lets the full flavor of these ingredients show up to best advantage. This Prize Cake is light and tender as can be. It keeps fresh and moist for several days, and what's more, you can mix it in a jiffy.

Delicious Frosting

You'll be delighted with the creamy chocolate frosting, too. Like the cake, it stays beautifully fresh and moist. It is so easy to make and so inexpensive, you'll want to use it for your favorite layer cake or for cup cakes. So cut out the recipe now and plan to make it soon.

Prize Cake

$\frac{1}{2}$ cup vegetable shortening
 $\frac{1}{2}$ cup sugar
 $\frac{1}{2}$ cup cocoa
 $\frac{1}{2}$ cup vanilla
 $\frac{1}{2}$ cup sugar

2 eggs, unbeaten
 $\frac{1}{2}$ cup seeded raisins, chopped
 $\frac{1}{2}$ cup nuts, chopped
 $\frac{1}{2}$ teaspoon baking powder
 $\frac{1}{2}$ teaspoon soda
 $\frac{1}{2}$ cups sifted flour
 $\frac{1}{2}$ cup water

Combine salt, cinnamon, cocoa and vanilla. Add sugar gradually and cream until light and fluffy. Add eggs, one at a time, beating thoroughly after each addition. Add raisins and nuts and mix well. Add baking powder and soda to flour and sift 3 times. Add small amounts of flour to creamed mixture, alternately with water, mixing after each addition until smooth. Pour batter into an oblong pan, $12\frac{1}{2} \times 8 \times 2$ inches, greased. Bake in moderate oven (350 degrees F.) 45 minutes. Spread Easy Chocolate Frosting on top and sides of cake.

Easy Chocolate Frosting
2 tablespoons shortening
 $\frac{1}{2}$ cup cocoa
 $\frac{1}{2}$ cup sugar
2 tablespoons scalded milk
 $\frac{1}{2}$ cup sifted confectioners' sugar
 $\frac{1}{2}$ teaspoon vanilla

Melt butter, and chocolate together over hot water. Pour hot milk over combined sugar and salt and stir until sugar is dissolved. Add vanilla. Add chocolate mixture and beat until smooth and thick enough to spread. (All measurements in these recipes are level)

Rockefeller Carillon

The Rockefeller Memorial carillon at the University of Chicago is one of the two largest in the world. It has 72 bells and was cast by Gillett and Johnston, Crofton, England. These bells, given by John D. Rockefeller in memory of his mother, Laura Spelman Rockefeller, were installed in the belfry of the chapel tower in the autumn of 1932. The bells range in size from 10 $\frac{1}{2}$ pounds to the great bourdon, which weighs 35,328 pounds and has a diameter of 117 inches, or almost 10 feet. The total weight of the bells is 220 tons. Their total cost was approximately \$200,000.

Tree Transpiration

A large tree may absorb and discharge through its leaves as much as 80 gallons of water on a single hot day. Transpiration, one of the vital processes taking place in all green things, literally pours water in vapor form through the leaf pores all summer long. Unless the root system is able to provide for this process, the leaves dry up, and are unable to manufacture food necessary for the growth and vitality of the organism.

European nations are thankful that at least some of their treasures are out of harm's way—safely housed in exhibits at the New York World's Fair. Total value of foreign exhibits at the fair, including Magna Carta and many priceless paintings, is $100,000,000.

Disney Cartoons

Walt Disney started cartooning in Kansas City in 1921 when he made the Laugh-O-Gram series. In October, 1923, he and his brother Roy went to Hollywood and produced the Alice Cartoons. The first Mickey Mouse was "Steamboat Willie," 1928. The first Silly Symphony was "The Skeleton Dance," 1929. The first Silly Symphony in color was "Flowers and Trees," 1932.

Will Rogers Memorial

As a living memorial to the humorist, the Will Rogers Memorial Scholarship fund has been established at the University of California, the University of Oklahoma, and the University of Texas. More than $300,000 has been made available by the Will Rogers Memorial commission to aid handicapped students during 1939-40 to complete their college education.

Appendicitis Fatalities

Show Increased Rate
The depression is responsible for an increasing death rate among victims of acute appendicitis, according to two Cleveland doctors.

Drs. F. R. Kelly and R. M. Watkins, observing the mounting death rate in a study of 2,000 consecutive cases at Women's hospital here, report that appendicitis victims without funds hesitate to summon medical aid when an attack occurs and try to treat themselves.

Half of the victims studied were hospitalized in the more prosperous years of 1920 to 1935; the rest between 1931 and 1938. The death rate among the first 1,000 was 9 per cent; among the second 1,000, 23 per cent. The doctors reported their study in the Journal of the American Medical Association.

"During the depression years," they wrote, "patients delayed operation 29 per cent longer than in better times. This surely increased the mortality rate."

"If economic conditions improve, this delay on the patient's part will be lessened, but in the meantime persons should be told to pocket their pride and seek medical aid regardless of their circumstances, if they have pain in their abdomen."

Astrologist at Rotary Luncheon

Franklyn Q. Doyle, an astrologist, entertained members of the Rotary and their guests at the weekly luncheon meeting held Wednesday noon at the Governor Clinton Hotel.

Using a dial of the Zodiac showing the 12 signs, the astrologist explained their ruling periods of the year and their relation to the persons born under the signs. The speaker asserted that astrology was a science and not a superstition and that astrology was older than the Bible. Its use by many successful people throughout the world was becoming more popular, he stated.

The astrologist claimed that the heavenly bodies exert, according to their relative positions at certain times, direct influence upon human life and destiny, and determines in any given case what this influence is and thus foretells the future.

The astronomical deductions of the astrologer who took as his subjects, members of the service club, were very amusing if not accurate. Flattering remarks were in excess of the derogatory characteristics that should rule the lives of the Rotarians, but the latter caused the greatest concern if the amount of laughter was to be used for the rating.

Dr. Charles Carter is program chairman for the month of October.

The visiting Rotarians present were Earl Brougham of Catskill and Lowell Gypson of Albany.

Guests present included Fred Ertel, George LaDue and Ralph Barlow.

The singing of Robert Hawksley was greatly appreciated as was the singing of the Rotary quartet, Messrs. Laidlaw, Carr, Modjeska and Davis. Sam Scudder, Jr., was the accompanist.

In France the poor are assisted partly through public "bureaux de bienfaisance" and partly by private and ecclesiastical charity.

BACKACHE, LEG PAINS MAY BE DANGER SIGN

Of Tired Kidneys

If backache and leg pains are making you miserable, don't just complain and do nothing about them. Nature may be warning you that your kidneys need attention.

The kidneys are Nature's chief way of taking excess acids and poisonous waste out of the blood. They help most people pass about 3 pints a day.

If the 15 miles of kidney tubes and filters don't work well, poisonous waste matter stays in the blood. These poisons may start nagging backaches, rheumatic pains, leg pains, loss of sleep and energy, getting up at night, swelling, puffiness under the eyes, headaches and dizziness. Frequent or scanty passages with smarting and burning sometimes shows there is something wrong with your kidneys or bladder.

Don't wait! Ask your druggist for Doan's Pills, used successfully by millions for over 46 years. They give happy relief and will help the 15 miles of kidney tubes flush out poisonous waste from the blood. Get Doan's Pills.

Study Beef Before Buying It, And Weight It Before Cooking

Here's one of the less expensive cuts of beef—a chuck pot roast. It can be as tasty as this one looks.

Sound advice on cooking is a help to a bride, even if she decides not to act on it. Mrs. Alexander George, our food expert, has prepared three articles to help fall brides, especially on their meat-cooking problems. This is the first.

By MRS. ALEXANDER GEORGE
AP Feature Service Writer

This year's fall bride will find it a little more difficult to run her household than most fall brides of recent years have. For the food market news we read in the wake of the war indicates higher prices; that's bad news for home budgets, and especially budgets for new homes.

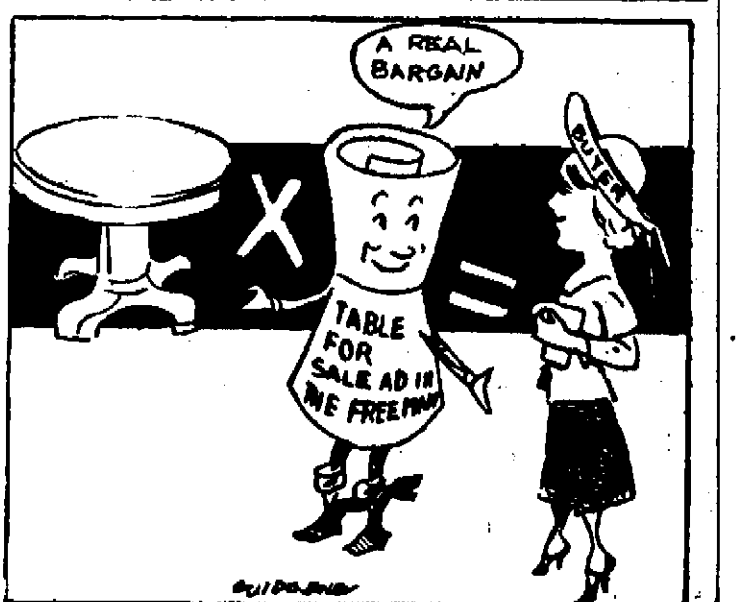

Beef is still priced about where it was this time last year, so we'll start with that.

Be sure the lean part is bright red in color, looks glossy, is fine-grained and is elastic to the touch. The fat should be creamy white and distributed throughout the lean, for flavor.

As soon as the meat reaches your kitchen, discard the wrapping, lay it flat in a shallow dish and store it in the coldest part of the refrigerator.

MARLBOROUGH

Marlborough, Oct. 4—On Monday afternoon, in the home of Mrs. Albert Marcks, chairman of the ways and means committee, the Marlborough Parent-Teacher Association met to make plans for its first card party. The card party will be held in the auditorium of the Marlborough Central School on Friday evening, October 27 at 8 o'clock. Prizes will be awarded each table and refreshments will be served. Those meeting Monday with Mrs. Marcks were Mrs. Frank Johnston, Mrs. W. B. Harris, Mrs. Fred Velie and Mrs. C. Grinnell.

Dr. W. B. Harris and Dr. J. Boynton Scott of Marlborough have begun the physical examinations of children in the Marlborough Central School. Dr. Harris has started with the children in kindergarten and Dr. Scott began with the high school department. About three weeks are required to complete the examinations and after examinations are completed the parents of the children will be notified of any physical defects.

Mrs. James Hannigan and daughter, Rita, spent Monday in Highland at the home of her mother, Mrs. Margaret Dorham and sister, Mrs. Joseph Maroldt.

A good attendance is expected at the party to be held in St. Mary's Hall on Thursday evening under the sponsorship of the Catholic Daughters of America. Mrs. Mary Hannigan is general chairman and will be assisted by members of the court.

The annual meeting of the North River Presbytery will be held in Salt Point Tuesday. The Marlborough Church appointed John Wooly, commissioner and Fred Velie alternate. The Rev. Claude McIntosh also attended.

Principal Edward L. Dalby and Jack Robinson, industrial arts teacher in the Central School attended a meeting of the South-eastern District Industrial Arts Association held last Wednesday evening in the North Junior High School in Newburgh. The meeting began with a dinner after which remarks were made by several speakers. Agricultural teachers of Orange county gave a demonstration to show the correlation between agriculture teaching and industrial arts.

Mr. and Mrs. Robert Cole have been entertaining Mr. and Mrs. William Engle of Troy.

Mr. and Mrs. Alex Van Core are the proud parents of a son born last Sunday night.

Miss Barbara Baxter has returned to Pembroke College, Rhode Island, where she is sophomore this year.

Mr. and Mrs. Roy Lunney left on Saturday morning for their home in Minto, New Brunswick, Canada, after visiting relatives in town.

Mr. and Mrs. John Coon, Jr., recently entertained relatives from Grantwood.

Last Wednesday afternoon Blanche Kniffen, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. George Kniffen celebrated her tenth birthday in her home with a party for a number of her friends. Those attending were Phyllis and Joan Cosman, Beatrice, Charlotte and Antoinette Troncillito, Florence, Valeria and Lillian Dawes, Dolores Conn, Helen, Josephine and Douglas Nantz, Teddy Barton, Gladys, George and Blanche Kniffen. Miss Lillian Dawes entertained with piano selections.

Chapter 28

The Missing Mail

"YOU'LL have a devil of a time finding Buff," her father told Tim over the telephone. "If she's made up her mind to leave you out on a limb, if you'll take my advice, you'll stay in Denver overnight, at least. Tell me your hotel and I'll call you around ten. There may be some word of her then."

There was no alternative. Tim gave the name of an unpretentious hotel which he and George made use of when business kept them overnight in the city. He spent a long afternoon in his room, trying desperately to remember any reference Buff had made to the places she liked to stay. Gramercy Park, in New York, had appealed to her. Should he try her there? But she couldn't have reached Chicago by now, let alone New York.

In the middle of the afternoon he telephoned George in a forlorn hope that some scrap of news had reached him. It had; a rather surprising scrap, too.

"Iris has checked out at the Boulevard," Weekes said excitedly. "And what's more it looks as if Buff had taken her in her car. Lashaw was in the office today. He's pretty hot under the collar as you might expect. First we busted up his deal with that Detroit buyer, and now we've kidnapped his girl—so he says."

Tim was dumfounded. Buff and Iris together! He didn't know which seemed the more incredible: that Iris would go willingly with the girl who had exposed her desert, or that Buff would want to take Iris. He replaced the receiver dazedly. But protracted thought—and he had plenty of time for thought, protracted or otherwise, before the call came through from Tucson at ten—showed him that providing for Iris was exactly the sort of thing Buff might be expected to do.

"Taking care of people is a complex with him. And I thought she was going out of her way to look after me! All that talk of marriage was simply her idea of the best way to protect me from"—he winced—"the lures of the world. She'd have done it as readily for George—for that fool VanLander. She selected me because mine seemed to her a more desperate case." He thought of his brother's admonitions to her, of his stubborn resistance to her attempts to help him, and reddened. Buff seemed to stand before him, her blue eyes gentle, her small slim figure at once protective and appealing.

Somehow the hours dragged along until ten o'clock. Tim leaped toward the telephone when Lance Carroll's call came through.

"I've heard from her," announced the artist. "You can stop your worrying. She's safe."

"But where is she?" Tim shouted.

"Where she prefers to be for a time, at least: without an address."

"D'you mean that I—"

"I'm afraid so. She said particularly that no one in Boulder was to know her destination. Sorry, but Buff always has a pretty good reason for what she does."

But—but it's absolutely necessary that I—

"Look here, Mr. Carroll!—there are things I must say to her. A lot has happened since you were here. It's vital that I see Buff—communicate with her, any way."

"Write her in care of my address," advised the older man. "But don't come down here. She's here—safe—but I don't want to hunt her either. It's a fairly large country to hide in, you know, and Buff's a seasoned traveler. Put your troubles on paper and send the letter here. I'll see that it's forwarded."

With that Tim had to be content. He wrote and re-wrote his letter, used up all the stationery in the hotel bedroom and ran out more. At one o'clock or thereabouts he came to the conclusion that the first letter was about as good as the last; neither represented adequately what he wanted to say. He sealed the envelope, tore it open, wrote a few lines, and went across to his room. The next day he returned to Boulder to await Buff's answer.

Tim's Turn To Worry

IT WAS Tim's turn to speculate, to arrive, to worry. He turned over and over in his mind the events of the last few months. He had left a personal interest in his well-protected of the character she held herself really beloved and shown toward him. He thought of the man sculptor and Buff's motherly care of him. He thought of the dozen or more University students who dropped in to see him and sandwiches, for each a word of advice and help.

At last he thought of Iris. Buff's plan in rescuing the girl who had been the cause of so much trouble to everyone was proof positive in Tim of Buff's intrinsic kindness. It was in a tight place, Lashaw had turned snarling upon her in the real estate office, and now a girl of betraying her plans to Tim.

The story of that hasty trip to Denver was sure to leak out, Tim was sure. George's exultation was too great to expect complete silence on his part.

"And Buff was quick to realize all that. While I was stunned with fear and confusion, and wild with anxiety to see Buff, she quietly picked up a bag and took her away. And I'll bet myself that she was not so much a man, as a woman, rather than a person who needed her friendship and encouragement!"

He was right about the story being known to Boulder. True, it was a gaudy story, involving a summons of the police, Iris's flight from legal accounting, Buff's chagrin at discovering her friend to be an adventuress.

Tim learned that Mrs. Webb was returning to the ranch. He went into the kitchen of Buff's apartment to say goodby. She had been good to him, and she had watched faithfully over Buff. Tim shook her hand cordially.

"No word, I suppose, from Miss Buff?" He did not pause for an answer but hurried on: "Webby, I want you to promise me something. You have my telephone number, both at the laboratory and the boardinghouse. I don't like the idea of your being alone at the ranch. You might fall ill. Will you call me if you need help of any kind? I'll come right out."

Her broad face, rigid at first with some emotion he did not understand, showed a wavering smile.

"I'll call you, Mr. Tim. You—you're a nice man to matter what they say."

He nodded absently. He was past caring what "they" said by now. The answer to his letter to Buff was due and over due. Each night he searched the table at his boardinghouse, hoping to find the girl's small firm handwriting on one of the envelopes in the pewter plate; and each night he was disappointed.

He questioned George cautiously.

"I don't suppose you happened to have heard—from Buff? I mean—it's only natural she would write you, considering how friendly you two were."

"Not a word!" was the crisp rejoinder. George's sympathy with his partner flamed as bright as ever, but he considered Tim needed to learn his lesson thoroughly this time. "Pretty dull old town without her, isn't it? No tea-time chats, no naps. Worst of all, no Buff in that blue velvet thing she wore, curled up in the big chair to listen to us gab about our work. For such a young thing, Buff is pretty much of a person. A lot of us are just beginning to find it out."

1 Can Do Nothing

TIM assented unhappily. He had passed the stage where he cared what Weekes thought of him—at least where Buff was concerned.

When it became evident that he could no longer expect an answer to his letter—the stuffy thing he wrote, curled up in the big chair to listen to us gab about our work. For such a young thing, Buff is pretty much of a person. A lot of us are just beginning to find it out."

Carroll took his time to reply and when the letter came, it contained only two lines. "Sorry, but if Buff chooses to disappear from your life, I can do nothing."

Winter which had withheld its violence until now swept down on the little town. The snowpuffs were busy every day clearing the roads. The winds came straight from the peaks and were knife-edged.

There was little work for either of the young men. Tim had time on his hands; time to miss a straight little figure with blue eyes which looked directly into his, not drooping like Iris's dark ones, time to recall a dozen little gestures, a hundred infections of the boyish voice, Buff's own contagious chuckle.

He missed her sorely, and as the winter wore on his longing to see her grew almost hourly. Iris faded completely from his mind; or if he remembered her at all it was with the instinctive recoil of a healthy mind from recollected pain. Night after night he lay in his bed, his eyes fixed on the ceiling but his inward vision busy with Buff; loyal little Buff, friendly and kind little Buff. Buff whose courage was great enough to offer herself in marriage to a man in trouble, since it seemed to her there was no other way to help him.

His infatuation over Iris DeMuth had given him a facility in terms of endearment. He had called her "darling" and "dearest," sweet, and "heart's delight." Foam on the wave, he knew now. Even in his thoughts he could say no more than the crisp little nickname: Buff. Buff! He threw into it enough agonizing longing to more than fill a volume of love poems.

He woke one morning with a strange purpose. He would drive out to the ranch and see how Webby was getting along.

"You're crazy, man," George told him flatly. "I doubt if you can get through on the highway this early. It's a sure thing you couldn't make the road to the ranch. Webby would have called you if anything was wrong. You told me yourself she promised."

"The lines down," Tim answered. "I tried last night to get her, tried again the first thing this morning. Even if she's well, she may have run out of supplies in that out-of-the-way place."

"Well," George sighed, "if you're dead set on going, I suppose I may as well go along."

"No, you stay here." There was a husky note in Tim's voice which surprised the other man. "At the best, it'll be no pleasure trip. At the worst, I may get held up out there a couple of days or more. One of us had better be here."

So Tim set off soon after nine, in a storm which rapidly assumed the proportions of a blizzard.

An old Hindu proverb says: "Help thy brother's boat across and lo thine own has reached the shore." This is sound psychology. It is nothing more than our old friend—the law of compensation. "Whatsoever a man soweth, that shall he also reap."

Two small boys were discussing the capabilities of their mothers, who were active club members.

First Lad (declaring proudly)—My mother can talk on just about any subject.

Second Lad—Aw, shucks, my mother can talk without any subject at all.

Two classes of people are having trouble these days:

Those who can't get out of debt; Those who can't even get in debt.

Hostess—Won't you have some more cake, dear?

Little Girl—How many times have you passed it?

Hostess—Three times, I believe. Why do you ask?

Little Girl—Well, mother said I must not take any the second time, but she didn't say a thing about the third time.

Dad makes some mistakes but he is careful not to talk too much to son about the way that he, as a boy, celebrated Halloween night.

Hal—That Jones fellow is about the laziest critter I ever saw.

Jim—Oh, I don't know about that; why, only the other day I saw him high up in an oak tree.

Hal—Of course, you did. But he laid himself down on the acorn 20 years ago.

Mrs. Hinks—Goodness, Sarah, what a kitchen. Every pot, pan and dish is dirty. The table is a perfect litter and—why, it will take you all night to clear things up. What have you been doing?

Sarah—Nothing, ma'am. Your daughter has just been showing me how they boil a potato at her cooking school.

Common Things

Joy is found in common things. That each passing season brings—

Winds that tip-toe through the grain;

Silencing plumes of silver rain; Popular-plumes that brush the sky.

Fireflies flitting softly by; Hollyhocks beside a wall,

And the meadow-lark's first call; Summer's green-gold loveliness,

Maple trees in autumn dress; Winter's cozy firelight glow,

Moonlight on new-fallen snow, There is wealth in common things.

More than worldly wealth of Kings.

And this one seems to be at the head of the class:

Judge—Do you consider the defendant a reliable man? Does he have a reputation for truth and veracity?

Witness—Well, your honor, everybody hereabouts knows he has to get somebody else to call his dog at feeding time.

After all it is better to laugh at yourself once in a while than to take life so seriously that others laugh at you.

Final Plans Made For Variety Show

Final arrangements have been made for the gigantic variety show to be held at the downtown church hall.

The show, sponsored by the Men's Club with Charles Brodhead as chairman, will be the biggest ever staged at the downtown church hall.

After unending efforts, the chairman and his assistant, Mr. Parsells, have rounded out a show which promises to be nothing short of sensational. The program in completion will be: The Kingston Kirt-Ups, novelty orchestra; Arthur Kirtz, soloist; Mr. Parsells and Co., comedians; Master William Anderson, musician; Thomas Crosby, Jr., violinist; Mrs. Francis Parsells, vocalist; The Tahitiens; the Triangle Girls Order of Eastern Star drill team.

Master of ceremonies will be Charles Brodhead.

Fort Bliss to Be Army School

Will Expand Reservation As Laboratory for Big Problems.

EL PASO, TEXAS.—A vast cavalry laboratory of 51,300 acres for U. S. army training will be added to the Fort Bliss military reservation here under an authorization act passed by congress and signed by President Roosevelt.

An army land acquisition board is expected to survey the area within the next few weeks for selection of the acreage to be purchased as the first step in an expansion of the post. The proposed enlargement under the present authorization act would extend the military boundaries north and east to include terrain which is ideal for cavalry maneuvers.

Terrain Considered Ideal.

This area was selected for the enlargement program, which it is hoped ultimately will comprise 150,000 acres in Texas and 350,000 in New Mexico, because of military advantages not as easily obtainable in other sections of the country. Scattered population, accessibility to water and forage, climatic conditions and proximity to rail and highway were considered in the selection.

Although exact outlines of the authorized 51,300-acre acquisition await determination by the army land board, the area will include mountainous regions, foothills and level terrain—providing all types of land conditions for use in cavalry movement as well as for reconnaissance and scouting. Thus the territory will provide tactical officers with a vast laboratory for working out cavalry problems.

The scattered population of the desert area will enable long range firing practice for artillery and troops, as well as bombing and ground strafing ranges for army airplanes.

Chamber of commerce officials here, under the leadership of W. H. Peterson, president, and Capt. E. H. Simons, secretary, have pressed congressional and war department officials for enactment of the expansion plan. They hope within the next few years to encourage further purchases by the federal government for enlarging Fort Bliss for an additional 500,000 acres. The land in New Mexico, of the same type as that to be acquired under the present authorization act, is largely federal and state, domain and could be acquired at a relatively nominal cost, Peterson said.

With the post enlargement, the chamber of commerce head sees a probable increase in the number of officers and men stationed at Fort Bliss, strategically located on the Mexican border halfway between the Pacific coast and the Gulf of Mexico.

Peterson's present goal is a full corps of cavalry, whose mobility on the trackless desert along the border has not yet been proved inferior to any other armed branch, including mechanized forces. Ultimately he hopes to see a concentration of U. S. cavalry tactical schools at the site of the vast field laboratory.

'Don't Go Near Tracks,'

Betty Does, Stops Train

GRAND BAY, N. B.—Mrs. Jensen's three-year-old daughter, Betty, had been warned repeatedly not to go near the railway tracks. So straight to the railroad tracks went Betty, and stood in the middle of them until she stopped a slow freight.

The engineer and the trainman got off and walked up to her. "Get off the tracks and don't ever stand on them again or something terrible will happen to you," they told her.

For an answer Betty said: "Waaal!" and held her ground. They had to pick her up and carry her off the tracks.

Sweden Increases Sales

Of Prefabricated Houses

STOCKHOLM.—Sweden is exporting the prefabricated houses which have steadily increased in popularity among its own people in the last few years. Official figures show that production increased from 1,546 units in 1933 to more than 5,000 in 1938. Two main classes are manufactured. One is the light summer cottage type. The other is the fully timbered house, manufactured in all types, including bungalow, cottage and villa for which cement and brick foundations are required.

Business Girls Go "Back To School"

Over 50 members of the Business Girls' Club of the Y. W. C. A. went "Back to School" Wednesday evening at the opening supper meeting held in the "Y."

Following supper the school was opened by the principal, Miss Ruth Bell, who acted her role in an amusing manner, adding greatly to the hilarity of the occasion. The school room was arranged in the front of the hall and simulated an old fashioned school room. Each of the members wore a colorful crepe paper ribbon to add to the atmosphere.

The club has chosen "Service" as its theme for the first term sessions, and has planned at least one sewing meeting a month to aid in the Red Cross appeal.

The program has been arranged to the end of December and includes addresses by Superintendent of Schools Arthur Laidlaw and the Rev. Arthur E. Oudemool, pastor of the First Reformed Church. Book reviews and social affairs and a joint meeting with the Newburgh Business Girls' Club are also on the calendar for the term.

In December the members plan the usual Christmas service work.

At the meeting next week there will be a guest speaker.

Food Sale Feature Of Home Benefit

The food sale, which will be held in conjunction with the Industrial Home card party, Friday, October, has become an affair well patronized and eagerly awaited.

So many requests have been made for "specialties" that the committee in charge, with Mrs. A. H. Chambers, chairman, has listed a few of the delicacies to be on sale: Bread and nut bread, oatmeal bread, parker house rolls, pastries, confectionery and condiments.

A number of reservations have already been made for the card party. Additional tables may be reserved by calling the Industrial Home, 1445. Players are asked to bring their own cards, score pads and pencils. Refreshments which will be served during the afternoon, will be included in the nominal sum charged to each player.

The proceeds of the sale and card party will be used for necessary improvements in the buildings.

Nursing Committee Meeting

The town of Ulster nursing committee will hold a meeting at the Lake Katrine Schoolhouse this evening at 8 o'clock. Everyone interested is invited to attend.

Rea-Bonavita

Miss Louise Bonavita and Carl A. Rea, both of Glasco, were united in marriage Sunday, October 1, at St. Joseph's Church, Glasco. They were attended by Miss Rose Provenzano and Louis Provenzano.

Junior Hadassah Plan Dance

At the meeting of Junior Hadassah held Monday evening in the Hebrew School, plans were made for a novelty stag dance to be held October 15, at Golden Rule Inn. Roger Bauer's orchestra will furnish music for the dancing. Arrangements for the dance are in charge of Miss Sophie Weiner.

Hollywoodites See Film And Don't Get Razzed

Hollywood, Oct. 5 (AP)—Several hundred Hollywoodites, who paid $10 a seat for the privilege, saw a movie about themselves which does not poke fun at them. It sets a precedent.

They saw a sincerely-told story, that was entertaining and as historically correct as dramatic license would permit.

This history starts in the early days of one-reelers, concluding with the dramatic arrival of sound. One of its climaxes is Al Jolson's "Kol Nidre," which he sang in the first talkie, "The Jazz Singer." (Jolson does as well, but the recording is better.)

Those who have watched the development of Hollywood ought to be able to recognize in "Cavalcade" the lives and loves which suggested the story.

A prop boy "discovers" an actress, signs her to a contract, forces himself into a directorship, builds himself into a giant of the industry and then loses the girl because he is so busy.

In the best movie tradition, the boy eventually gets back the girl, but the audience knew that in real life this very likely did not happen.

Don Ameche and Alice Faye are the principals. Buster Keaton, a gag writer now, is seen as the guy who started all the pie throwing. He's just as funny as ever he was.

The hilarious highlight is the return of the Keystone Kops, whose ridiculous chases seemed funnier than ever.

Insects Kill Each Other But No 'Enmity' Exists

No insect is really an enemy of another insect. But persons familiar with the several successful efforts to control insect pests by introducing other insects that kill them may not realize this, and so expect too much from this sort of "biological control." Entomologists are aware of the great quantities of insects that are the victims of other insects. But the victims are not killed because of enmity.

"One insect," T. E. Holloway, of the bureau of entomology and plant quarantine, said recently in explaining this difference, "may be the food of another insect, that is all. Man eats meat, but is not the enemy of cattle. The insect does not reason—does not need to. But if it could, it would not want to exterminate the species it feeds on."

Casual observers of some common insects see them leading seemingly varied lives—flies feeding on various foods, bees flitting to different flowers. They do not realize the intense specialization in the existence and reproduction of many insects. Some of the most effective parasites are strictly one-insect parasites. Unless the egg-laying parasites can find a certain stage of the insect on which it preys, it does not even place its eggs. The progeny will develop only in a particular host and in a certain stage of the host. Other parasites prey on a goodly number of species and sometimes the presence of more than one kind of host in a locality has an important bearing on the success of the species which is destructive to cultivated crops.

Entomologists working to control the Japanese beetle are seeking earnestly to determine if some parasites of the beetle can also reproduce by preying on native white grubs that are very similar to grubs of the Japanese beetle. If they could find one among those introduced from abroad that could live under conditions here—it would be most valuable.

"Not 3 per cent of the Germans in Australia would return to Germany if the way were open for them to do so," declared Sir Henry Gullett, Minister for External Affairs, in reply to the Berlin Deutsche Allgemeine Zeitung's statement that 50,000 settlers of German descent were organized in Australia under the swastika.

Good Taste Today

An Orphan's Wedding Announcement

Dear Mrs. Post: How is the marriage of an orphan bride announced in the newspapers? There are no relatives whose names she would want to use in connection with such an announcement.

Answer: The wording would be: Miss Mary Smith, daughter of the late John Henry Smith and the late Mrs. Mary Lawson Smith, was married to Mr. Henry Lawson Brown, son of Professor and Mrs. A. L. Brown of University Place (and where, and when).

Return a Present With Tact

Dear Mrs. Post: My daughter and I have been wondering if we have been guilty of a breach of etiquette. A young man from a very nice family has been very persistent in his attentions to my daughter. Last week was her birthday, and he came to the door and handed me a box to give her. When she opened the box she was very surprised to find a lovely jeweled bracelet. We talked it over, and I advised her to send it right back by a messenger boy. She did this, and hasn't heard from the young man since. Did I make a stupid mistake, Mrs. Post? What should I have told her to do?

Answer: Ordinarily, it is difficult to return a present and not hurt the feelings of the giver. In other words, while she should not have accepted jewelry of value, she should have returned it with tact. To ring for a messenger and send a present back was unkind as well as rude. What your daughter should have done was to ask him to come to see her, and then she could have explained that as much as she would love to keep the present, her mother wouldn't let her accept anything of so much value. It is always very simple when a girl is living at home to put her excuse on mother, no matter what the situation!

People Would Work At Home

Dear Mrs. Post: I am a bachelor and I live alone in a one-room studio. That is, living-room and office both. During the winter I had very little to do. I am an architect, and my friends dropped in any hour of the day or night. I love to have people around, and they are always welcome. But this summer unfortunately for me, several jobs have come in, and I'm busy at my drafting table fourteen and fifteen hours a day. My friends don't seem to realize that I have to concentrate, and that I can't talk and work at the same time. How can I explain to them that I want to be alone when I work, and not take a chance on losing their friendship?

Answer: All people whose offices are in their homes have this same difficulty in avoiding interruption. Frankness, I think, is the only answer to the problem. When people drop in, tell them that you have work that must be done, and that you'll telephone just as soon as you get out from under the work in hand. Your manner can show them how sorry you are and that you are not free. Your problem is especially appealing to me since it is my own! Never, never can I see my friends as often or for as long a time as I'd like to.

An Asset To Be Able To Address Audiences

Home Lessons Give Confidence

The big social affair of the club year—and what a grand job the toastmaster is doing. His secret of success is simple. A good toastmaster doesn't speak too long himself and he introduces speakers and entertainers briefly, but graciously and correctly.

After being introduced as toastmaster, you would begin, "Good evening, ladies and gentlemen. Thank you, Mr. Chairman. We will open the program with a song by Miss Winnie Warbler."

After the song, say, "Thank you, Miss Warbler," and continue with the program.

But what about stage fright? Nearly everyone has to conquer that—and with simple lessons in public speaking, you can, easily.

As you face an audience stand with arms and shoulders relaxed. Then you don't look frightened! Is your voice clear, your enunciation distinct? The most inspiring talk goes flat if the speaker swallows syllables. Say, "gov-ern-ment" not "gov'ment."

Home training will work wonders for you. Our 32-page booklet tells how to address groups on different occasions, gives parliamentary forms, advice on voice training, points for radio speakers.

Send 10 cents in coin for your copy of PUBLIC SPEAKING SELF-TAUGHT to Kingston Daily Freeman, Home Service, 635 Sixth Ave., New York, N. Y. Be sure to write plainly your NAME, ADDRESS, and the NAME of booklet.

SPARTAN BATTLEFIELD

Following definite identification of the famous battlefield of 2,500 years ago on which the Spartan King Leonidas and 300 of his soldiers perished while holding the pass of Thermopylae against Persian invaders, search continues in an effort to find the Polyandion, or communal tomb of the heroes. Professor Marinatos, director of archeological services in the Greek ministry of education at Athens, states that the battlefield was on the spot where now are the Thermopylae baths. Basing their investigations on the text of Herodotus, the searchers uncovered Phocian wall in its entirety. They definitely identified the hill on which the little band fell as one situated near the baths.

Ulster Park, Oct. 5—The annual business meeting of the Ulster Park Women's Christian Temperance Union was held at the home of Mrs. William Cole. The program was in charge of Mrs. R. Terpenning. Meeting opened by singing "America the Beautiful." Scripture reading by Mrs. Terpenning. Prayer by Mrs. B. T. Van Aken. Roll call followed answered by a verse containing the word "Faith." Singing, "Our Task." A poem was read by Mrs. Clarence Wells. Clippings were read by Mrs. B. T. Van Aken, Mrs. Lynn, Mrs. Osborn, Mrs. Neice and Mrs. Berens. Singing, "The 23rd Psalm." Minutes of last meeting were read and approved. Motion made and carried that the organization become a light line union. Officers and department directors gave a very satisfactory report of the year's work. Mrs. Herring reported on the efficiency plan which gave points enough for a winning union. Next was election of officers with the following results: President, Mrs. Leslie Herring; vice president, Mrs. B. T. Van Aken; secretary, Mrs. William Cole; treasurer, Mrs. S. T. Van Aken; organist, Mrs. John Lynn. Department directors will be appointed by the president at the next meeting to be held at the home of Miss Anne Terpenning.

Civilians Are Warned

London, Oct. 5 (AP)—The British government and the press warned civilians today against failure to carry gas masks. While transportation companies joined air raid precautions officials in checking up on "gas mask slackers," the London Daily Express reminded the public that "bombs or no bombs this war is on full blast." "Some folks need a bomb to tell them this war is being fought," the Express commented. "They expected ferocious and continued bombing—now they're puzzled. Don't worry, friends, the war is on, all right!"

Lights of New York

By L. L. STEVENSON

It wasn't so long ago in New York that: Fifty-second street's night-club district became excited over swing music. "What is it?" asked the public. Most practitioners couldn't define it. Now swing seems to be on the wane after several years of being dinned into public consciousness.

It wasn't so long ago that: James J. Braddock won a 15-round decision and the heavyweight title from Max Baer in New York. Today both are practically out of the active fist-cuff picture while a young Negro named Joe Louis is taking on all comers and vanquishing them as he did Braddock and Baer.

It wasn't so long ago that: Women on Fifth avenue started to wear hats like inverted peach baskets. Today feminine headgear in the metropolis ranges from disc-like creations no larger than an ordinary penny to wide-brimmed hats which allow one woman at a time to use a regular sized elevator.

It wasn't so long ago that: "Tobacco Road" was put on the stage in New York. Today after a run of more than six years, with three major changes in the top "Jester Lester" role, it is still attracting theater trade.

It wasn't so long ago that: Bank holidays were generally declared throughout the nation. Today, judging by the financial appearance of many New Yorkers, it is still a bank holiday as far as they are concerned.

It wasn't so long ago that: The dual bill got started in film houses and Marie Dressler was rated the best box-office draw. Today, there are loud complaints about double features and Marie Dressler has passed on.

It wasn't so long ago that: New York was dotted with miniature golf courses. Today there is nary a sight of one but after watching some duffers on regular courses it's hard to understand why they didn't stick to miniature golf.

It wasn't so long ago that: The Wall street market began to break with $15,000,000,000 to $50,000,000,000 vanishing into thin air, and practically every one who had been caught vowing never to play with stocks again. Today more than half of them are dabbling in Wall street.

It wasn't so long ago that: Edgar Bergen was advertising in theatrical papers that he was signed up with RKO but his ads had hardly a mention of Charlie McCarthy. Today, Charlie McCarthy gets all the top billing although Bergen still collects the money.

It wasn't so long ago that: Blaise New Yorkers thrilled to flagpole sitting, a craze for producing records of some sort. With it, the name of Shipwreck Kelly bounced into the headlines. Today flagpole sitting seems to have become a lost art.

It wasn't so long ago that: C. C. Pyle launched his bunion derby, a marathon walking contest in Manhattan. Today Pyle, ex promoter, is dead and so are walking marathons.

It wasn't so long ago that: "Peaches" Browning was appearing in vaudeville. Today she's an heiress and a member of cafe society.

It wasn't so long ago that: The money-making films were "Judge Priest" with Will Rogers, and "Dinner at Eight" with Marie Dressler and Jean Harlow. The pictures can still be revived but the stars are gone forever.

3,200-Mile Trip to Arctic Is Goal of Two Canoeists

MINNEAPOLIS.—Two Minnesota outdoor enthusiasts are paddling their way through the Canadian wilderness on a 3,200-mile canoe trip to the Arctic region's land of the midnight sun.

The pair, traveling through country rarely seen by white men, are Dr. B. F. Ederer, Morris, Minn., former secretary of the Minnesota conservation commission, and Robert C. Bradley, Minneapolis high-school student.

The two planned to travel through the Arctic regions, expecting to reach Juneau, Alaska, about September 15. They set off from Edmonton, Alta., with their trip mapped through the Great Slave lake, and up the Mackenzie river to Fort McPherson on the Arctic ocean.

The trip will take Ederer and Bradley through territories occupied by six distinct tribes of Indians and Eskimos. Indian guides will lead the canoeists most of the journey. The men are unarmed and depend on slingshots to augment their 20 pound food supply.

Music Found to Allay Desire for Narcotics

FORT WORTH, TEXAS.—Music has power to soothe human desire for narcotics, officials of the U. S. public health service hospital here believe.

To aid the 300 patients at the institution, Dr. W. F. Ossensfort, chief medical officer, announced, the hospital has ordered an "adequate supply of musical instruments including brass, reed and string types."

The civil service commission has advertised a competitive examination for a musical director for the hospital.

J. H. Gilmore Dies

ROCHESTER, N. Y., Oct. 5 (AP)—Joseph H. Gilmore, retired president of the Cutler Mail Chute Co., died last night. He was the son of the late Prof. Joseph H. Gilmore of the University of Rochester, who was widely known as the author of the hymn "The Leadeth Me."

announced that the missionaries to whom the tribute was paid had seen a total service of over 500 years in the field.

The success of the three years project, leading to the present anniversary, was shown by the report of the treasurer of the society, Mrs. Clinton Morris. She reported that the special goal which had been set was $63,000, in addition to the regular appropriations. This goal was more than reached, the total contributed being $65,450. Total receipts of the society for the year ending October 1, were $201,972.50. Disbursements during the same period were $178,910.88, leaving the organization with a nice balance on hand at the present time.

Wednesday Afternoon Session
Mrs. Frank A. Horne presided at the session Wednesday afternoon and presented as the first speaker Mrs. Edward S. Fuller, who took as her topic, "The Triple Light." Mrs. Franklin L. Reed spoke on "The International Department. Becomes a World Federation." Mrs. William H. Matthews discussed "Christian Literature." Mrs. B. H. McCoy spoke of "The New Planting," and Mrs. Philip S. Watters took as her topic "And a Little Child."

Mrs. Reed told of provision made in the new unification program of the Methodist Church for a World Federation of Methodist Women, with a meeting planned for California at which time representatives from some 30 nations will gather and sign the new world declaration as charter members.

Mrs. Matthews referred to the extent to which literature of all kinds is taken for granted, but said that in mission fields there is great demand and need for Christian literature. Especially is there need for literature for women and children. She spoke of the almost total lack of books for boys and girls in India. The members of the Foreign Missionary Society are being asked to contribute five cents a member this year toward a literature fund.

Mrs. McCoy told of plans for the new year and said that present local organizations should be kept going and strong, so that there might be no loss either at home or abroad, pending arrangements to be made when unification of this branch of the church work is carried out.

Mrs. Watters read a story that had been read by a little Kingston girl, many years ago and then told of the effect it had had and the band of missionary workers that was organized and did much earnest work as a result. At her request at least two members of the audience stood up and identified themselves as former members of that long ago mission band.

Extensive greetings were received from several sister organizations Wednesday afternoon. Mrs. Claude C. Coyle, president of the Women's Home Missionary Society of the New York Conference, brought sincere greetings from that organization and Mrs. Newell, secretary of the same society, sent a letter of greeting. Mrs. H. W. Brandt, president of the Protestant Methodist Church, was introduced and extended cordial greetings and a letter was read from Mrs. J. W. Perry, president of the Woman's Foreign Missionary Society of the Methodist Church South.

Wednesday Evening
Mrs. Victor presided at the evening session, which opened with an organ recital by Mrs. Arthur Ellison, followed by the devotional service conducted by the Rev. Fred H. Deming of Trinity Methodist Church.

The address of the evening was by Richard T. Baker of New York, who took as his text, "Put On the Whole Armor of God." Mr. Baker is a product of the Middle West and took the forthright stand that appears to be more or less characteristic of those from that section who have appeared in public life. He is at present completing a course in Union Theological Seminary and is connected with the publicity department of the Methodist Board of Foreign Missions. As a student in journalism at Columbia he won the award of a ten months Pulitzer scholarship tour and in 1937-38 visited many foreign countries, including a number of the missionary stations of the Methodist connection, including India, Malaya, and others. In the first part of August he attended the all-Methodist European Council at Copenhagen.

He discussed deplorable conditions in the world today and the break-down of Christian life and experience, as sectarianism, the influence of worldly standards, strifes and divisions affected them. He took a decided stand against racial discrimination, against the present move to permit warring nations to purchase munitions on the "cash and carry" plan, and visioned boys in khaki once more marching through the streets on their way to the mud-filled trenches of the European battlefields.

Mr. Baker saw as the only hope for the world an evangelized Christian Church, whose members should be equipped with the "whole armor of God," and who should be imbued with the spirit of the early followers of Christ. His talk was a plea for a united church, with righteousness, justice, faith, honor and love characteristics of its constituency.

Shot in Mouth
Spartanburg, S. C., Oct. 5 (AP)—Vernon Bullington, Jr., 13, was shot in the mouth when his .22 rifle accidentally discharged. Re-fusing to become perturbed, he spat out a tooth, then another and finally the bullet. Then he took first aid treatment.

Phelps Says Crossing Job Is for Safety; Cost Is $1,500

"The Broadway crossing is being repaired at this time as a safety measure and the job will not cost over $1,500 at the utmost," said Supervisor of Track L. Phelps of the West Shore railroad when seen today and questioned in regard to the statements made by Alderman Donnaruma of the Sixth Ward at the meeting of the common council Tuesday night.

Alderman Donnaruma, minority Democratic leader of the council, made the statement that the job was a most elaborate one and would cost from $5,000 to $10,000. He expressed a doubt as to the New York Central railroad being sincere in its cooperation with the city in the grade crossing elimination plan when they are spending such a large sum on the Broadway crossing.

Mr. Phelps when questioned said it should not be forgotten that the crossing had to be made safe and it was in a dangerous condition which had led him to have necessary repairs made. He said that if the elimination goes through it should not be overlooked that the railroad would still have to have tracks on which to operate its trains, and the elimination job would take well over a year to complete.

Mr. Phelps said the crossing would not have lasted throughout the winter if repairs were not made now, and that the repair of the crossing was a routine maintenance problem of his department which had no significance whatsoever so far as the eliminations of Kingston's grade crossings were concerned.

Railroad officials in New York who have in charge the matter of railroad crossing elimination had no knowledge of the fact that Phelps had decided to make the crossing safe for traffic during the coming winter.

of injuries sustained in the torpedoing. The others said they had been aboard the U-boat for 36 hours and were treated courteously while it cruised off the Irish coast seeking a spot to put them ashore.

The region selected for the landing was described by the British as "desolate" and although it is patrolled night and day only one customs officer happened to be in the immediate neighborhood. Grade Crossing Hearing Oct. 11 of Kingston consists of the following:

Lowering the present grade of the West Shore Railroad starting about 1,000 feet north of O'Reilly street and gradually descending at 1/4 per cent grade to a point about 400 feet south of the tracks where the proposed grade of the tracks will be about 30 feet below the present track grade. From this point there will be ascending grades of 35 per cent and 50 per cent respectively meeting the present track grades of the W. S. R. R. about 200 feet north of Flatbush avenue.

Relocating the Walkkill Valley Railroad starting near South Wall street and running at a descending grade toward the south end of South Pine street, crossing Wilbur avenue, thence to the rear of the Barmann Brewery, crossing the intersection of Barmann avenue and Prospect street and thence parallel to the W. S. R. R. meeting the proposed grade of the W. S. R. R. south of Broadway.

The installation of northeast and northwest "Y" branches providing access between the U. & D. R. R. and the W. S. R. R.

Elimination—Description
To accommodate a minimum clearance of 19 feet between the proposed tracks and the underside of the proposed bridge over the railroad, it will be necessary to raise the present grade of Broadway about four feet, requiring the following re-arrangement at this intersection:

Ramp roadway 38 feet in width starting at the westerly side of the Rafalowsky building and running easterly on an ascending grade of 4 per cent starting at the westerly side of the Everett & Treadwell Building and running westerly to the proposed bridge.

Similar ramp roadways 38 feet in width into Railroad avenue and Greenkill avenue.

A ramp roadway into the freight yard.

In addition to the ramp roadways on Railroad avenue, Greenkill avenue and Broadway toward Thomas street, a 16-foot roadway and a five feet, six inch sidewalk will be installed on the north side of the westerly Broadway ramp starting at the westerly end of the ramp and running toward Railroad avenue and continuing along Railroad avenue to the end of the Railroad avenue ramp. A similar roadway and sidewalk will be installed on the southerly side of the westerly Broadway ramp starting at the westerly end of the ramp and running toward Greenkill avenue and continuing along the westerly side of Greenkill avenue to the end of the Greenkill avenue ramp. The above 16 foot roadways and sidewalks will retain the grades as now exist in these streets.

It will be necessary to widen Greenkill avenue to provide for the above described roadways in this street and it is proposed to acquire either wholly or partially the following properties:

The United States Hotel, the Mary Winter property, the Arace property and Duto property.

Smith Avenue

This street will be closed on either side of the railroad due to both the N.E. and N.W. "Y"s from the U. & D. R. R. crossing this street at a high elevation than the West Shore R. R.

Ten Broeck Avenue Elimination

To accommodate a minimum clearance of 19 feet between the proposed tracks and the underside of the proposed bridge over the West Shore Railroad, it will be necessary to raise the present grade of Ten Broeck avenue about 11 feet. Consequently, it will be necessary to install a ramp roadway starting at Cornell street and running at a six per cent grade to the proposed bridge. Also a ramp roadway starting about 200 feet westerly from Grand street and running at a six per cent grade to the proposed bridge over the West Shore Railroad.

To provide for the above described bridge and ramps, it will be necessary to wholly or partially acquire the following properties:

A. L. Haber, L. & E. Whipple, H. & N. Smith, Peter J. Haloran, Aird-Don Co., Nettie Joe, Christiana Schwenck, Robert Steeger and Eugene Dauner. Also to provide access roads for the National Biscuit Co. and the Hobentger property.

Foxhall Avenue Elimination

To accommodate a minimum clearance of 19 feet between the proposed tracks and the underside of the proposed bridge over the West Shore Railroad, it will be necessary to raise the present grade of Foxhall avenue about 14 1/2 feet. The northerly ramp from the bridge at a 5 per cent grade will extend to Gage street and the southerly ramp at the same percent of grade will terminate at Derrenbacher street. The installation of this viaduct will prohibit access to Foxhall avenue from Stephan street and Cornell street. In order to provide access to Foxhall avenue from Stephan street, Emerick street, Gage street and St. Mary's Cemetery, it is proposed to construct a street starting at Foxhall avenue and Abbey street, running thence to Hazel street, and thence extending Hazel street to Cemetery Drive.

To provide for the above described elimination, it will be necessary to wholly or partially acquire the following properties:

Foxhall avenue—Corness Est., Louis Duto, Shattemuck Realty Co., Kingston Coal Co., Lena Schatzel, J. Barba, B. Saviano, Jos. Gelner, Hilda Benton and P. Joyce, Derrenbacher street—G. Gagliardi, Ray Huling, M. Duffner, and Chris Roche.

Stephan street—W. Heinmickel, Emerick street—Lela Schilling, Gage street—C. R. Steger, R. Kelder and R. K. Hutton.

Gage Street

This street will be closed off on either side of the West Shore Railroad. A bridge and necessary ramps, if erected on this street, would prevent access to the majority of industrial buildings in this street.

Flatbush Avenue Elimination

To accommodate a minimum clearance of 22 feet between the proposed tracks and the underside of the proposed bridge over the West Shore Railroad, it will be necessary to raise the present grade of Flatbush avenue about 25 feet. The westerly ramp from the bridge at grade of 6 per cent and 2 per cent will extend to Foxhall avenue and the easterly ramp at a 6 per cent grade will terminate near the westerly bound of the Dwyer property. A ramp will be also necessary on Tietjen avenue, from Flatbush avenue to Tietjen street.

To provide for the above described elimination, it will be necessary to wholly or partially acquire the following properties:

Flatbush avenue—Eliz. Webber, H. Ulrich, E. C. Lawson, Lillian Lieske, J. & I. Garrison, Rose Sauer, John W. Harris, Harry Van Kleeck, E. & A. Seaman, Percy Slover, Schryver Lumber Co., St. Mary's Cemetery Assoc., S. R. Devo, R. K. and L. Hutton and Wm. J. Dwyer.

Tietjen avenue—Lillian Lieske, E. Jansen, Ennis Nekos and Koch, St. Mary's Cemetery Association.

The present plan shows a bridge to be erected over the West Shore R. R. having a clearance of 22 feet between the proposed tracks and the underside of the proposed bridge. This scheme might be abandoned in favor of a foot bridge erected over the West Shore R. R. and an additional entrance erected at a site to be designated by the St. Mary's Cemetery Association.

To provide for the present plan of elimination, it will be necessary to acquire lands of the St. Mary's Cemetery Association, Charles Ramsey Corp. and the Borden Co.

Proper Acquisition for W. V. R. R.

Re-location

It will be necessary to acquire wholly or partially the following properties for re-locating the Walkkill Valley R. R.

Chazustek property, Barmann property, Goldwasser property, William Schwabach property on South Prospect street, Sullivan property on South Prospect street, Bechtold property on South Prospect street, Soper property on Park avenue, Flicker property on Park avenue.

Property Acquisition for Switch to Everett & Treadwell and Van Slyke & Horton

To accommodate the above properties, it will be necessary to acquire lands of Seymour over which to lay the new switch track.

Additional Properties to Be Acquired

For the installation of the north-west "Y" connecting the U. & D. R. R. with the W. S. R. R., it will be necessary to acquire a part of the property of the Cornell Estate.

To provide a switch track for the U. S. Lacey Mills it will be necessary to acquire property of Olsen.

To provide a switch track for Kingston Cooperage Co. and Haber, it will be necessary to acquire property from Bacharach and Haber.

Ghost Towns of West Show Signs of Revival

Out in the West a few years ago you could drive off the beaten path and go exploring into the last century. Behind the shoulder of some hill or in a desert valley you would discover a full-sized town where no one lived, says Popular Mechanics. Along the sagebrush-covered main street would be weather-beaten stores, post office, banks and saloons of a small city, flanked by blocks of unoccupied houses. In the eerie silence the flapping of old wallpaper behind a broken window or the creaking of a door would be the only sounds.

These ghost towns of the mining country were left intact when the gold fever died or when bonanza strikes in other districts caused the inhabitants to move away overnight. Towns like Rhyolite with a pretentious railway station and office buildings, or Bodie, built with tremendous hardship high in the mountains, were left complete right down to stacks of dishes still in the kitchens and files of records still in the banks.

Today the ghost towns are coming back to life. Towns that have been asleep for 75 years are stirring again under the excitement of high-priced gold. Modern air-conditioned stores are springing up next to the tottering ruins of old buildings. Lively stables where harness still rots on the walls are being torn down for gasoline stations. From Cripple Creek in Colorado to the Mother Lode in California long-abandoned mines are being worked again. A survey by the Automobile Club of Southern California shows that practically every old gold camp in the West is active.

Shark Fishing Is Now Million-Dollar Industry

Since the comparatively recent discovery that the livers of soup-fish sharks constitute the best source of Vitamin A, shark fishing on the Pacific coast has become a million-dollar industry.

With six companies operating with specialized equipment now, and with the industry in its infancy, fishermen, reduction companies and packers alike predict that it is destined to become one of the greatest industries on the coast.

Fishing is being carried on from Mexico to Alaska. Last year 2,500,000 sharks were caught in California waters while vast quantities of livers were sent here for reduction from other states.

Packers point out that extensive research work still will be necessary to develop all the possibilities of the industry, not only from the standpoint of the extraction of Vitamin A, but for use of all the by-products.

While the liver remains the most important element of the shark, yet the flesh is already being used extensively as food, some for fertilizer and also for food for chickens

Shark Fishing Is Now Million-Dollar Industry

Since the comparatively recent discovery that the livers of soup-fish sharks constitute the best source of Vitamin A, shark fishing on the Pacific coast has become a million-dollar industry.

With six companies operating with specialized equipment now, and with the industry in its infancy, fishermen, reduction companies and packers alike predict that it is destined to become one of the greatest industries on the coast.

Fishing is being carried on from Mexico to Alaska. Last year 2,500,000 sharks were caught in California waters while vast quantities of livers were sent here for reduction from other states.

Packers point out that extensive research work still will be necessary to develop all the possibilities of the industry, not only from the standpoint of the extraction of Vitamin A, but for use of all the by-products.

While the liver remains the most important element of the shark, yet the flesh is already being used extensively as food, some for fertilizer and also for food for chickens

Kingston Baseball Series 4th Game Goes on Sunday at 2:15

Joneses, Indies Resume Gingery Pennant Battle

Charlie Neff and 'School-boy' Bush Probable Hill Starters—Indies Ahead 2 to 1 Hope to Clinch Flag

Swinging back into action after a week's recess due to the Holy Name Regional Rally last Sunday, the Independents will attempt to capture the 1939 City League championship. Boasting a commanding 2-1 edge, the Indies can clinch the two-loop flag by taking Sunday's fourth "Little World Series" fracas. With Jack Dawkins on the threshold of his second successive City League crown, the largest crowd of the season is expected to witness the all-important play-off tilt slated for 2:15 this Sunday.

Attracting some 4,800 fans during the previous three hotly contested diamond duels, Sunday's baseball saga is expected to draw the largest assemblage of them all. Jones Dairy, two down, will be forced to lead with their ace, Charlie Neff, in a last effort to stay in the championship running. Interest in the Dairyman-Indies series games is running high in the best "three-out-of-five" play-off program.

Indies Win Two

Jack Dawkins' Powerhouse copped the Labor Day opener, 2-1, and the third fray, 8-7, while Charlie Neff pitched the Milkmen to a 5-3 verdict in the second game. Bothered by a lame wing, Neff patrolled right field in the third affair. With two weeks' rest, Neff's trusty right arm should be well oiled and ready to fire that cannonball past the Indies once again.

Bush After 3rd

Bob "Schoolboy" Bush, who courageously flung the Indies to that thrill packed 8-7 win two weeks ago, will be gunning for his third triumph over the Dairy-Rich pill pounders. Bush, the Indies' "Meal Ticket", has worked three full contests for the championship-bound Powerhouse crew. Bud Swarthout, pitcher, is still available for relief duty should Bush falter this Sunday.

Howie Brooks, rookie left-hander, turned in a sparkling relief role in a rescue act for George Celuch. Brooks, relieving Celuch in the second, came through with a neat five-hit performance in the six inning stint. With Neff and Brooks ready, Jones Dairy has two "hot" hurlers ready to battle the Indies in the decisive fourth game.

Brooks' southpaw slants gave the left-handed slugging array of McLean, Van Eiten, Martin and Dawkins plenty of headaches as he handcuffed the Indies in the closing innings.

Both Clubs Ready

Manager Dawkins is expected to stand pat on his regular lineup for the "clinch" Sunday. Charley Lay, absent from the last duel, is a probable outfield starter while Maestro Dawkins will handle the mask and mitt assignment. Dawkins is a more potent threat at the plate than the light hitting Messinger, although the Indies manager boasts a zero plus batting average.

Bing Van Eiten, Bock, McLean, who played sensationally in the third tilt, and Addie Stumpf will work the inner defense patrol for the Indies with Jimmy Martin, Dykes, Bill Thomas or Charley Lay in the outfield.

Dairymen Desperate

Desperate, the Dairyman are expected to "shoot the works" against the Indies. Manager Zadany, clipping the apple at a scorching .545 pace, will present his strongest hitting crew. Paulie Misove, who batted a neat .369 clip during the '39 season, is expected to get the call in right field in the only lineup change.

Despite the lapse in series play, Sunday's decisive fourth game is expected to top all tilts from an attendance standpoint. Three umpires will again govern play with Clark's Radio Service again on hand with Charley Tiano at the mike. Game time is 2:15 sharp.

Call on Rookies In Little Series

Rochester, N. Y., Oct. 5 (AP)—A pair of rookies held today the answer to the Little World Series clash between Rochester of the International League and Louisville of the American Association.

With the teams tied at three games each, rival managers called upon youngsters to win the deciding game.

Young Johnny Grodzicki will pitch the final game for the Rochester Reds, while Bill Woody Rich will hurl for Louisville.

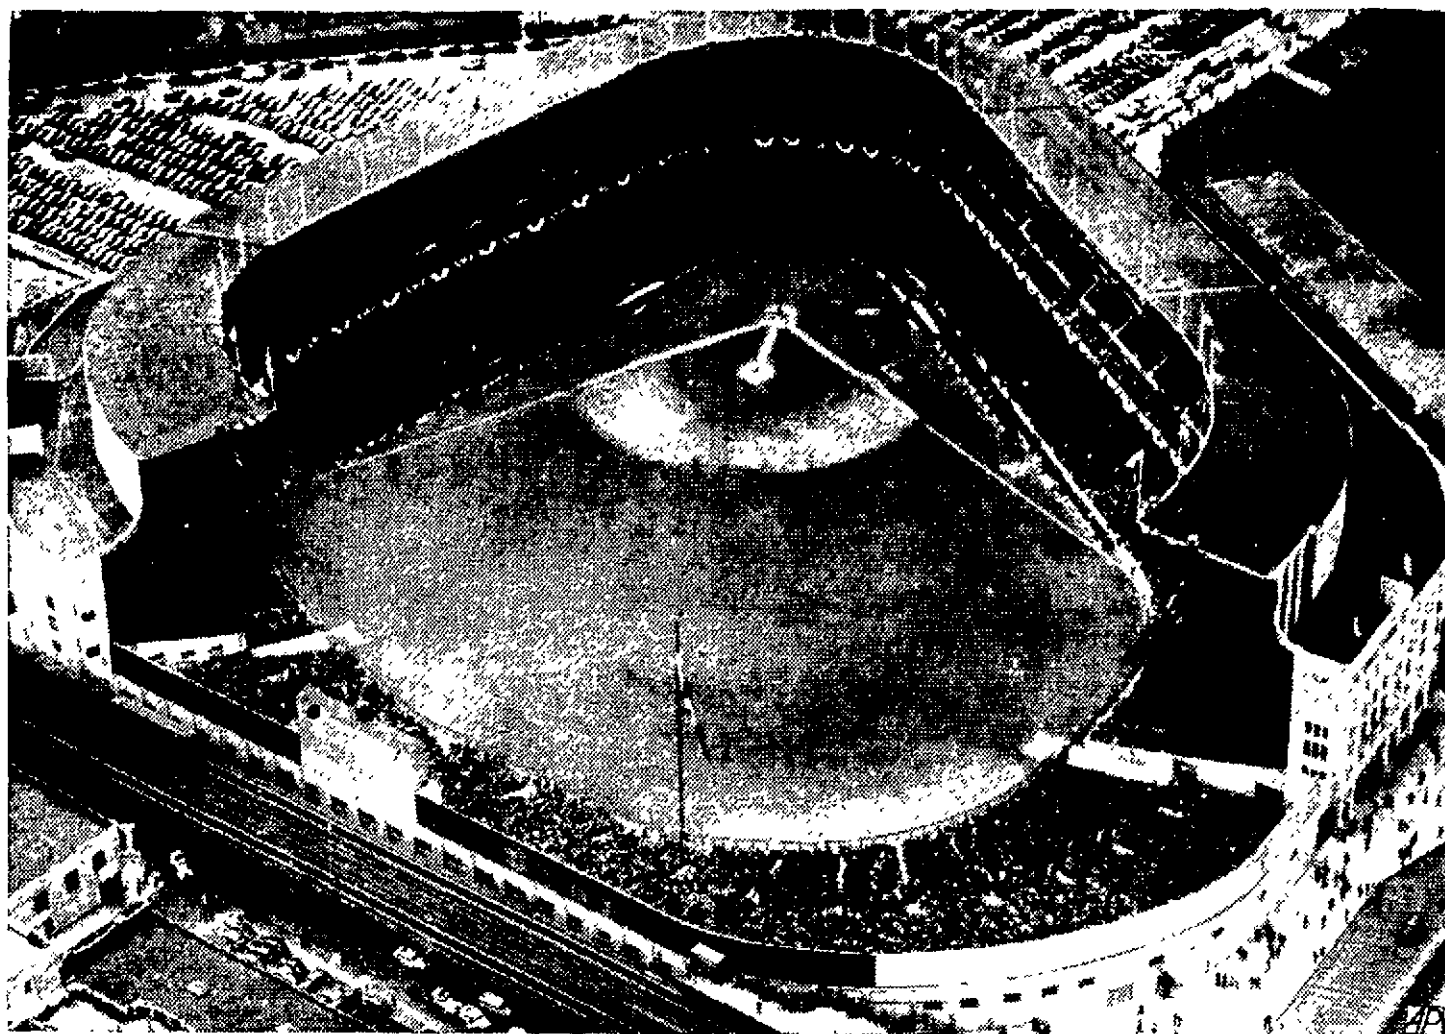

The Wings squared the 21st annual junior classic last night with a 5-3 victory.

Schmeling Not Called

Berlin, Oct. 5 (AP)—Max Schmeling, former heavyweight boxing champion, arriving in Berlin today, disclosed that he had been "living the life of a country squire" since the war began and had not been called for military service. "I'll remain in Berlin for a while," Schmeling added, "my wife will join me shortly to do another movie."

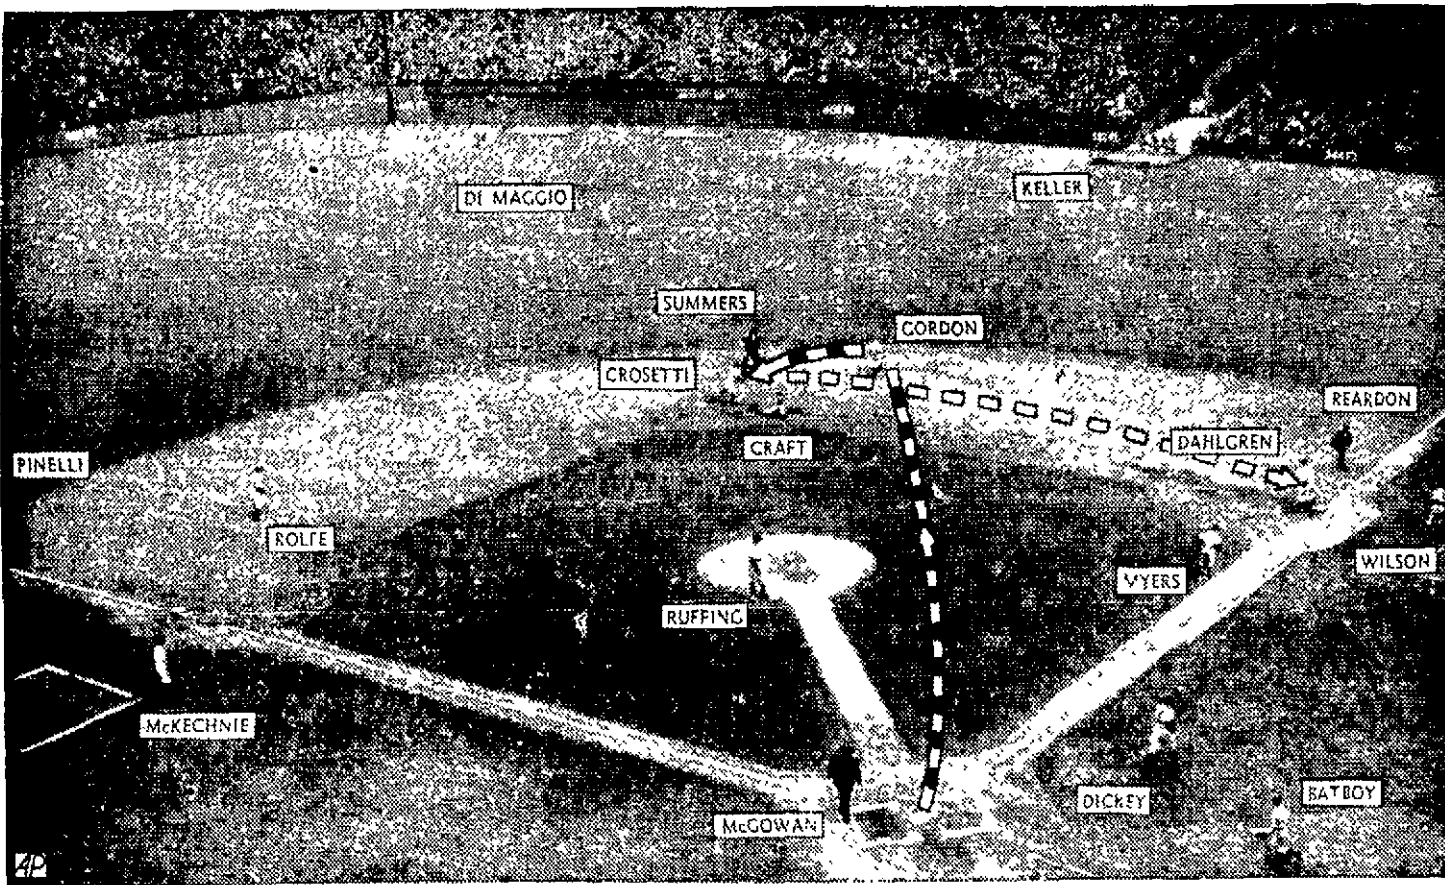

Misses—While you wait on the table tonight for my guests, please don't spill anything. Maid—Don't worry, ma'am; I never talk much.

58,541 CUSTOMERS PAY $219,041 TO SEE OPENER

This high-fly view of Yankee Stadium shows how fans crowded in to watch the New York Yanks humble the Cincinnati Reds in the World Series opener. Nearby parking lots were jammed. The final score was 2-1.

YANKEES' DOUBLE PLAY CUTS DOWN REDS

Two such double plays as this in the first game of the World Series cost the Cincinnati Reds their chances of rolling up a winning majority. This play occurred in the fifth inning. Harry Craft was on first and one was out when Billy Myers hit a bouncer to Joe Gordon near second. Gordon snapped the ball to Frank Crosetti, who covered second and fired it to Babe Dahlgren at first for a double play. Yanks won 2-1.

GOODMAN'S STEAL PAVES WAY FOR RED RUN

Cincinnati Right Fielder Ival Goodman (right) slithered under Yankee Second Baseman Joe Gordon's outstretched glove and was safe stealing second in the fourth inning of the opening World Series game at Yankee Stadium. The steal set up the Reds' only run, for Goodman went home a play later when McCormick singled. The umpire is Bill Summers.

FOOTBALL BRIEFS

(By The Associated Press)

Tuscaloosa, Ala.—It seems to be just one injury after another for Sandy Sanford, Alabama's star kicker. Last year it was a broken leg that kept him out of action. During the summer he hurt his kicking toe and now he's laid up with an injured thigh. He'll get into the Fordham game at New York Saturday only to do some emergency booting, if at all.

New York—If the Yale attack is anything like Lou Little pretends it is, Columbia's Lions are in for a rough time Saturday. Lou sent his backfield coach, Cliff Bat-ties, in with the scrubs to give the varsity a taste of what they'll have to stop. Cliff, who used to be a better than fair ground gainer with the Washington Redskins, was a bit too much for Columbia players, but Little indicated he was pleased with their performance.

Annapolis, Md.—Navy's regular backs haven't been able to get going offensively this season but Coach Swede Larson seems to have a good supply of touchdown makers. He called upon a "rescue squad" of Wes Gebert, Earl Rowe, Everett Malcolm and Ralph Beyer to make an impressive score against William and Mary last Saturday, and when Virginia formations gave the others trouble, he promoted them as a group to the first team.

Eastern Grid Season Under Way

New York, Oct. 5 (AP)—The "Ivy League" teams get into action this week and the football season in the east finally will be under way.

Yale and Columbia open against each other at New Haven Saturday, Cornell leads off with Syracuse, and Pennsylvania faces Lafayette. Princeton and Harvard open with Williams and Bates, respectively. Army meets Centre Saturday while Navy faces Virginia. Little Hampden-Sydney follows St. Lawrence on the Dartmouth program. From advance indications, Cornell and Navy probably are the class of the league this year, but Columbia-Yale probably will be tops in this week's games. Despite Bear reports, the Elis seem to have come up with a well rounded first team while Columbia has at least as much. For the first time in years Lou Little has enough reserves to give the Lion varsity a good scrimmage and with Les Stanczyk as the spearhead, Columbia may have a fine offense.

Oakland, Calif.—Tony Olivera, 120, San Francisco, outpointed Sixto Escobar, 123, Puerto Rico, world bantamweight champion, (10-non-title). Tuffy Pierpont, 118, Oakland, outpointed Canada Lee, 122, New York. (6).

Yankees Take 1st Series Game From the Reds, 2 to 1

New York, Oct. 5 (AP)—Those Yankees, possibly the greatest set of opportunists baseball has yet seen, are off and running again.

Victorious over the scrapping Cincinnati Reds, 2 to 1, in yesterday's tense opening battle of the World Series, they go into the second contest at Yankee Stadium today almost prohibitive favorites to wrap up their fourth straight world championship.

That was the game the Reds needed. Paul Derringer nearly pitched his stout heart out, and his National League teammates fought to the last gasp before a friendly crowd of over 58,000. But in the end the great pitching of Red Ruffing and the timely swatting of the Yanks proved a little too much.

Even if Bucky Walters, their second line pitcher, scores for the Reds today over the Yankees' Monte Pearson and squares the series, the Yankees still will have a big psychological edge as they go to Cincinnati to continue the clawing on Saturday. They have beaten Derringer, the man Bill McKeechie regarded as his ace, and they again have proved that they can't be overcome by fine pitching alone.

Lost in Fifth

Probing further into the opening thriller, though it was won by Bill Dickey's line single to center with Charley Keller on third base in the ninth, it was lost to the Reds when Wally Berger made the wrong throw-in from left field in the fifth frame, enabling Joe Gordon to score all the way from first on Babe Dahlgren's zipper down the line.

That one uncertain throw undid the splendid six-hit, seven-strikeout hurling of Derringer and put the big right-hander in a spot where, when the Yankees finally struck again in the ninth, he was trying to fight off the winning run instead of the tying one. He couldn't do it, and suffered his first loss in 11 starts.

Here's what happened: The Reds were ahead, 1 to 0, the result of a walk to Ival Goodman, his steal of second and Frank McCormick's hit through the infield—the 129th run of the year driven across by the first-baseman. Derringer was wheeling them through in great style. In four innings he had given the Bombers only two hits and had whiffed four.

So, with one out in the fifth, Gordon lined a single to left. The next batter, Dahlgren, cracked one over the third bag that Bill Werber just failed to spear. It went on to the boards and Berger fielded it smartly as Gordon tore between second and third. Then Berger lazily winged the pellet toward second, apparently hoping maybe to nab Dahlgren there.

Art Fletcher, coaching for the Yanks at third, saw instantly that the Reds hadn't arranged for a "cut-off" play, as he said later, and he waved the fleet Gordon on home. Linus Frey took Berger's heave, and, apparently flustered at Gordon's daring, made a high peg to Ernie Lombardi at the plate as the Yankee slid into the pan.

The Reds, in the dressing room later, admitted individually they felt that was the lapse that cost them the struggle.

As it was, Paul went into the ninth looking fairly secure. In the three previous frames he had set the Yankees down in order and at one point had struck out three of them in a row.

Red Rolfe, first Yank up in the ninth, smashed one over first that McCormick fumbled but came up with in time to win a close decision. Keller, the rookie from Newark, then caught hold of one that went a mile high toward the 407-foot sign in right-center.

Goodman went after it from right, and so did Harry Craft from center. Both, playing in an unfamiliar park, appeared to be bothered by the possibility of crashing into the wall. They looked at the ball, then at the wall, as they sprinted desperately.

Goodman just reached it. At arm's length, the ball hit his glove and bounced off, and Keller easily reached third. It was scored a triple, though a lot of Yankee partisans felt that Joe DiMaggio would have had it in his pocket, being familiar with the park.

Derringer then purposely passed DiMaggio to set up a possible double play. Why he didn't also pass Dickey while he was about it, thus setting up a force play at home, had not been explained at this hour. For Dickey pumped a clean single into center that Craft fumbled and didn't even bother to recover, because Keller long since was across the plate and the crowd was leaving.

Much has been made here of Derringer's hard luck, but Ruffing pitched the better game. The right-hander became the first pitcher in history to win successive World Series games, as he beat the Chicago Cubs in the final game a year ago.

THE YANKS TIED IT UP WITH THIS ONE

Red Catcher Ernie Lombardi (left) had to jump high for the throw and Yankee second baseman, Flash Gordon, skidded across the plate with the Yanks tying run in the fifth inning of the opening World Series game at Yankee Stadium. Dahlgren brought Gordon in with a long double to left after Flash singled. Plate umpire is Bill McGowan.

St. Peter's Bowling League Opens Tuesday, October 10

St. Peter's Bowling League held a meeting on Tuesday evening making final arrangements for the opening of the league. The league consists of eight five-man teams, each team having two alternates. Two matches will be held nightly on Tuesday and Friday. It was voted that the American Bowling Congress rules be used, along with a few local rules. A small entry fee for prizes was decided upon. After a discussion on team names it was suggested and carried that major league baseball names be used.

Prizes will be given to winning team, man rolling high three games, man rolling high single and high single game of each team. The league will officially open with Father Herdegen rolling the first ball on Tuesday, October 10, at 9 p. m. The opposing teams at this time will be the No. 5 Cards vs. No. 6 Cubs. All games will be rolled on St. Peter's alleys.

Lineup of teams:
Yanks—Peter Bruck, captain; Leo Mellert, John Long, Al Radell, L. Geuss, Phil Peters, George Segendorf.
Reds—Ed Schupp, captain; Joseph Carro, William Ummerle, Bob Schatzel, John Worf, John Rhinehardt, Joseph Koenig.
Dodgers—H. Harder, captain; L. Schupp, Nick Huber, Len Avery, Steve Merkle, Walt Harder, Father Herdegen.
Braves—Joe Zeeh, captain; J. Fadoul, Ray Zeeh, F. Kubick, L. Maines, C. Uhl, Ken Geary.
Cards—Tom Kearney, captain; J. Disch, Jr., W. Hotelling, N.

Backfield Star For Casey Night Game on Friday

"CRUSHER" KACZANOWKE
When the Yellow Jackets clash with the Newburgh Receptions Friday at the municipal stadium, for the Knights of Columbus, in the first night football game ever held in Kingston, the spectacular play of Charley "Crusher" Kaczanowke is expected to outshine even the brightest of the arc-lights.

This smashing backfielder from Hudson, who has signed with the Wasps for the season, is expected to be the spark plug of the Kingston attack. "He's a line buster if there ever was one," said Coach Don Beany, "and in my estimation is an All American player out of college."

Jimmy Cullum, ace quarterback of the Jackets, agreed with Beany that Kaczanowke is one of the best fullbacks ever to carry the pigskin for the local eleven, and thinks he'll be one of the chief factors in helping the Wasps stinging the Newburgh Recs, who will come to Kingston fully prepared to stop the K. of C. representatives.

With Kaczanowke and Cullum in the backfield will be those old reliable Eddie Minasian and Marco Tiano, football stars since their high school days. They'll be vying with their old rivals Chummas, Goff, Chimmel and Schuler of DUSO League days.

Members of Kingston Council, K. of C., handling arrangements for the night game, announce that tickets are selling well for the event, presaging a capacity crowd at the stadium. Those desiring tickets who have not been approached by Casey's selling team, may procure their entrance pasteboards at the K. of C. Home, O'Reilly's stationery stores, Minasian's fruit store or at the stadium Friday night. Starting time of the game is 8 o'clock.

Will Meet Armstrong
Minneapolis, Oct. 5 (AP)—Howard Scott of Washington, D. C., was signed by Promoter Tommy O'Laughlin today to meet Henry Armstrong in the world welter weight title match here October 13.

Koh-i-noor Diamond
The famous Koh-i-noor diamond may be worn by a queen but never by a king. According to a superstition, any king who wears the jewel will lose the rule of India, just as past male owners of the Koh-i-noor lost their dominion over that realm. In accordance with this belief, only Queen Victoria, Queen Alexandra, Queen Mary and Queen Elizabeth have ever used the stone, which weighs 106 carats.

Yankee Hero

Cincinnati's Reds kept the New York Yankees champions on the defensive in the first World Series game until clouting Charley Keller, rookie right-fielder from the University of Maryland, tripled with one out in the ninth and came home on Dickey's single. He's shown in the dressing room afterward. Yanks won 2-1.

DO YOU WANT ALL-WINTER RADIATOR PROTECTION FOR ONLY 1.25?

HERE'S THE WAY many car owners do it. They put in a couple of quarts of Du Pont "ZERONE" early in the season for protection against rusting and the sudden cold snaps they know will come. When it gets really cold, they add enough "ZERONE" for lower temperatures. Six quarts, put in as needed, can protect your engine (15 quarts) for the entire winter. And six quarts cost only $1.25! Less, depending on radiator capacity and the severity of winter. But "ZERONE" will save you real money. Put some in today! Remember, it's only $1.00 a gallon, 25¢ a quart.

Presby Softball Champions Receive Church Loop Trophy

One hundred and fifty men from Kingston and vicinity attended the annual softball banquet at the First Presbyterian Church, Elmendorf street, last evening when President Harry Gray presented the championship trophy to the Fair Street Reformed Church team. The team won the trophy in the season play-off from the First Presbyterian team, runners up in the series.

Manager Ted Young of the Fair Street team accepted the trophy for the third time out of four encounters in that number of years.

Welcomed by Kenneth Lantry, president of the Presbyterian Club with Chet Baltz acting as toastmaster, Mayor Conrad J. Heislman was introduced and spoke briefly on the benefits of athletics. With Mayor Heislman was Alderman-at-large John Schwenk and Superintendent Ernest Steuding of the Board of Public Works.

Donald Taylor, amateur wrestler was presented and spoke on this sport. A member of the New York Athletic Club wrestling team in 1937, Mr. Taylor was Captain of the University of Pennsylvania wrestling team and expects to try out next year for the Olympic squad. Also present was Thomas Weems a three letter man at Gettysburg College, graduated in 1939, and has just taken up his duties as assistant coach in Kingston High School.

Weldon McCluskey, physical director at the Y.M.C.A., a commissioner of softball for the southern district of New York, spoke on the benefits of athletics. Prof. Arthur Laidlaw, superintendent of Schools of Kingston, was the fourth speaker and traced the history of sports from the contests of Greece.

Ted Young, manager of the Fair Street team, accepted the trophy in behalf of his team. The following players participated in the playoff for Fair Street: Harold Clayton, Jr.; Bill Newkirk, c; Billy Newkirk, ss; Harold Johnson, 3b; Bob Bush, 1b; Bill Schwab, 2b; George Chilson, Craig Plough, Don Sweeney, outfielders; Ken Williams, 2b; Van Haver, Dutch Fuller, outfielders; Ad Schultz, 1b; Bob Meeker, Bill Bush, outfielders; Ted Young, manager.

Harold J. (Pie) Traynor, (left), outgoing manager of the Pittsburgh Pirates, was among the first to congratulate his successor, Frank Frisch (right), after the former "Fordham Flash" signed his Pirate contract in New York. Traynor resigned when the team finished the 1939 season in 6th place.

Wicket Races Sunday, October 8

Last Sunday the races at Washington Hollow were called off because of the rain—and 27 drivers and car owners were disappointed. They will all be back Sunday, October 8 to try to take the top money away from Len Fanelli.

Among those present last week was Tommy Simmonetti, the youngest member of Boston's racing Simmonetti's. He and his two brothers will be down with their father, that millionaire race car man, "Rube" Anderson, who has won the main at Springfield and Rosfield many times this summer.

The Ulster county drivers will be ready to compete also.

Time trials start at 12:30 and races at 1:30 p. m.

Although the total amount of phosphorus fertilizer used on American farms has been steadily increasing, the amount used per acre is still very small compared to what is needed. There are three main reasons for the marked need for phosphorus by American farmers: a relatively low total supply; removal of large amounts of phosphorus from soils by cropping and erosion; low availability of the phosphorus present and the low utilization of that added in fertilizers.

Three Cases in City Court Today

Three cases were brought to the attention of Judge Cahill in police court today. Stephan Ryan of 61 Van Buren street, was fined $2 for passing a red traffic light at Broadway and St. James street, and $5 for not having an operator's license with him.

Morris Steinman of 555 Broadway, charged with not having an operator's license to drive a car, was discharged when he explained he had lost his license and had made application for a new one.

Jesse Weeks of Glenford, was fined $3 for public intoxication.

Gems are Stolen At Goldberg Home

Jewelry of considerable value was stolen some time Tuesday from the apartments of Samuel N. Goldberg at 93 Main street.

Mr. Goldberg operates the Paris Cloak and Suit Company store on Wall street, and discovered the loss shortly after 5 o'clock when he returned home from the store.

The theft was reported to the police department. Entrance was obtained by forcing the lock on the living room door with a sharp instrument.

The exact value of the jewelry taken was not made public.

Strikes Forcing Auto Industry to Reduce Production

The rising cloud of labor troubles is appearing on the horizon of the automobile industry, at a time when several makers are reporting sales at high peaks for this time of the year and others are increasing operations and when many branches of industry are approaching boom levels.

A 35-days old CIO strike affecting three major bearings makers already has forced Plymouth to cut production by 20 per cent and CIO slow-downs and a strike at Midland Steel, which supplies frames for five makers is hampering Chrysler operations. Meanwhile Packard reports September sales up 130 per cent over last year with an even greater increase predicted for October.

Some departments are working on three eight-hour shifts and the company is not able to manufacture cars in volume to meet the demand. Chrysler sales are also making an impressive showing, with retail deliveries in September up 100 per cent over a year ago. Factory shipments in September were a third larger for last year.

New Haven, which had a loss of $669,502 in August, is seen likely to break even in September. Would be the first month since December, 1936, that the road had broken even after fixed charges.

For the third consecutive week electric output reached a new record level. Production for the week was 20,801,000 kwh above previous week.

Bituminous coal production last week, estimated at 9,900,000 tons, was highest since week of December 1, 1937.

Making the third rise in the past few weeks anthracite producers advanced domestic prices 35 to 60 cents a ton. Prices still are but slightly above the 1939 spring quotations.

Railroad scrap again advanced at Pittsburgh, to $25.50-$26 a ton. Stocks moved narrowly on the New York Exchange Wednesday with volume at 970,000 shares vs. 1,000,000 Tuesday. Although Wall Street was said to see peace as a remote possibility, traders continue cautious, while public buying is reported to have dwindled to small proportions, although many inquiries are being received. In yesterday's trading industrials in the Dow-Jones averages just managed to show a gain, .02 point, to 150.25. Utilities also were ahead, .16 point to 25.16, but rails fell behind, being off .47 point, to 33.88.

Commodity prices continued to drop, the average being off .24 point for the day. Cotton was irregular, four points lower to three higher, with distant months favored. Wheat was half a cent to a cent a bushel higher in Chicago, with moderate buying orders.

High-grade bond issues continued their upward, many scoring sharp gains. U. S. Government advances and utilities were in good demand. Canadian bonds were strongest in the foreign list.

One producer advanced price of domestic copper to 12½ cents a pound, others continuing to quote 12 cents.

In London trading was dull as traders awaited speech by Hitler. Price movements on Amsterdam Bourse were within a narrow range as peace rumors caused noticeable restriction in trading; the close was lower.

Europe Awaits Hitler's Speech

communiqué said there were "intermittent artillery actions." A German communiqué called the artillery fire "minor" and added there was "scouting plane activity."

On the eastern front, Germany said mopping up continued against "shattered remnants of Polish troops" in conquered Poland. Dispatches from Luxembourg said the French were in full control of the Borg forest in a pocket between the Moselle and Saar rivers.

Pact Is Signed

Soviet Russia and Germany signed an additional protocol to their September 28 treaty of Moscow formally fixing their new frontier which divides Poland into two nearly equal parts.

German plans their hopes for peace on Hitler's speech. Observers seeking a hint of what he will say knew the fuhrer was dissatisfied with the attitudes indicated by Prime Minister Chamberlain and Foreign Secretary Lord Halifax in speeches last week.

"The Nazi attitude is that war on the east is finished and that conflict in the west never has started in earnest."

Chamberlain said Tuesday, however, that no "more assurances" from the Hitler regime would be sufficient guarantee for the allies to make peace.

Three British parliamentary groups met in secret last night to discuss the "possibility of direct peace proposals."

France, said war against "defeatist propagandists" while her western front army sought better positions against any German offensive. Parliament was sent on a vacation by Premier Daladier in a decree apparently aimed at muzzling communist deputies who have urged peace talks with the Reich.

Hungary reestablished diplomatic relations with Russia as evidence of the changed attitude of southeastern nations toward Moscow since the Soviet-German partition of Poland.

Other southeastern nations watched Hitler's speech and diplomatic negotiations in Moscow for a clue to the future trend.

Lou Ambers Wed.

Kingston, N. Y., Oct. 5 (AP)—Lou Ambers, world's lightweight boxing champion, was married to Margaret Celio, his childhood sweetheart, today in the presence of several hundred guests. Ambers planned a honeymoon through the mid-west before going into training for his December 1 fight with Henry Armstrong for the latter's welterweight crown.

on to Keller's long fly which fell safely for a triple.

It was probably because of this incident that McKechnie ordered sportswriters out of the dressing room and said he would answer all questions dealing with the club.

Lineups posted on the scoreboard showed no changes from yesterday except for the pitchers. A few minutes before game time the crowd appeared to match the 58,500 that saw the first game.

After today's game, the two clubs shift to Cincinnati for the third, fourth and, if necessary, fifth games, beginning Saturday.

Cincinnati (N. L.)—Werber, 3b., Frey, 2b.; Goodman, rf.; McCormick, 1b.; Lombardi, c.; Craft, cf.; Berger, lf.; Myers, ss.; Walters, p. New York (A. L.)—Crossetti, ss.; Rolfe, 3b.; Keller, rf.; DiMaggio, cf.; Dickey, c.; Selkirk, lf.; Gordon, 2b.; Dahlgren, 1b.; Pearson, p.

First Inning Reds:

Craft went down swinging for the second time in the game.

No runs, no hits, no errors, none left.

Fifth Inning Yankees:

Frey picked up Rolfe's roller, threw him out.

Keller's second straight hit was line single to left.

DiMaggio smashed bouncer to Walters, who threw to Myers, forcing Keller; Myers pegged to McCormick to retire DiMaggio for double play.

No runs, one hit, no errors, none left.

The phosphorus content of soils differs greatly. On an average, the percentage of phosphorus in surface soils is only about one-half that of nitrogen, and one-twentieth that of potassium. Many of the sandy soils of the Atlantic and Gulf Coast Plains contain less than 500 pounds of phosphorus to the plowed layer (six and two-third inches) of an acre, usually considered to weigh 2,000,000 pounds. Many of the most fertile soils of the country do not contain more than 1,200 to 1,500 pounds per acre. The phosphorus content of the soil is low not only because of low original amount, but also because of cropping and soil erosion have resulted in large losses.

Washington, Oct. 5 (AP)—Senator Overton (D-La.), urging retention of the existing arms embargo, told the senate today that the sale of armaments to European belligerents would constitute "armed intervention on the part of America."

Carrying on the opposition argument to the administration's neutrality bill, the Louisiana senator asserted:

"Let us not entertain the fond delusion that raising the embargo is not a step forward toward war. Soon the American dollar will be following American arms and the American flag, and the American soldier will be following both to the battlefields of Europe."

"For my part," he declared, "I am unwilling to take a step that way, and probably will lead us into a foreign war that will make widows of our wives, orphans of our children, corpses of our young men and bankrupts of us all."

'Twin Sisters of Peace'

Overton said that "neutrality and national defense are the twin sisters of peace for America."

"I fear no successful invasion of the United States by any foreign nation or combination of nations," he added. "If I do not apprehend that we shall be subjected to foreign domination, but I do entertain the apprehension that in the event of our becoming en-

Lincoln Historical Park

Abraham Lincoln National Historical park, birthplace of Abraham Lincoln, comprises 110 acres, and lies three miles south of Hodgenville, Ky. The Lincoln Farm association bought the site in 1906 and began the erection of a granite building in which to place a log cabin said to be that in which Lincoln was born. The cabin is 12 feet wide and 17 feet long, 11 feet from the floor to the eaves and 14 feet from the floor to the highest point of the roof. The memorial building, for which the cornerstone was laid in 1909 on the centennial of Lincoln's birth, is of Connecticut granite lined with Tennessee marble. Its inside dimensions are 44 feet in width, 34 feet in depth, and 45 feet in height. The association in 1916 transferred title to the farm and the memorial to the United States, to be administered by the war department. In 1933 the property was transferred to the jurisdiction of the national park service.

Two Kinds of Margarine

There are two kinds of margarine. One, made of animal and vegetable fats, salt and milk is commonly called the animal fat type or oleo-margarine. The fats most used are oleo (refined beef fat) or neutral fat (leaf fat of pork). The other kind, known as vegetable fat or nut margarine, is made of vegetable fats, salt and milk. The other principal ingredients of both varieties are peanut oil, coconut oil, cottonseed oil, soybean oil and butter.

Wishing Well Waters

The waters of the famous wishing well at Upwey, Dorset, are so famous that they are not only drunk by visitors but also often bottled and sold in other parts of England. Greatest fame came to the well some five years ago when 10 men who drank from it won $5,000 each in an Irish sweepstakes. Hundreds of people then crowded to the well for a drink and thousands of bottles of water from it were sold.

No Defense Made At Loan Trial

An inquest was taken this morning in Supreme Court in No. 92, Peter K. Schneider against Fred M. Linder, an action for money loaned. Morris Rosenblum for plaintiff and Grant & Clark were attorneys for defendant. There was no defense put up.

Plaintiff sued defendant, who is treasurer of the Ruppert Brewing Company, to recover $1,500 and the balance due on a loan of $2,000. Justice Schirick directed judgment in the sum of $1,500 and interest. Plaintiff is the step-father of the defendant and alleged he had loaned defendant money.

The action was defended on the contention that there was an understanding that the loan was to be cancelled by some inheritance and a counter claim was entered by the defendant. Justice Schirick dismissed the counter claim and directed judgment of plaintiff in the sum of $1,500 and interest. Mr. Schneider has a summer property near Greenville.

No other case was ready and court recessed until 2 o'clock.

Could Do Little More

If the embargo were repealed, he said, Germany could "conceivably" take the position that we could do little more, at present at least, to aid the forces arrayed against her.

"We could not destroy her fleet because it is bottled up. We could not destroy her merchant marine because England has driven it off the high seas. And public sentiment in America now is that we shall not send another expeditionary force to European battlefields."

"If Germany should retaliate by sinking our merchantmen plying between neutral ports and by firing upon the American flag, we shall be forced to declare open war against her."
